Community closet approved for EBS

By WENDY HANSOM

The SAD #44 board of directors voted Monday night to allow part of the Ethel Bisbee School's basement to be used as a community exchange.

A group of area volunteers plan to organize an exchange of food and used clothing at the site.

During the FY '92 budget process last spring, the board voted to save money by closing the EBS to students. Adult Education now uses the building's annex as classroom space.

Maryvonne Wheeler, social service worker for the West Bethel Children's Center and Greenwood director Susan Gordon presented the request to use the building.

"With things the way they are now," Gordon said, "We'd like to help as many people as possible. We'd like to fix up the space and put used clothing and food there."

Wheeler said there are currently four locations in Bethel where needy families can get clothing. She said her group would like to work to con-

GAMM deal in the works?

By MARK SHANAHAN

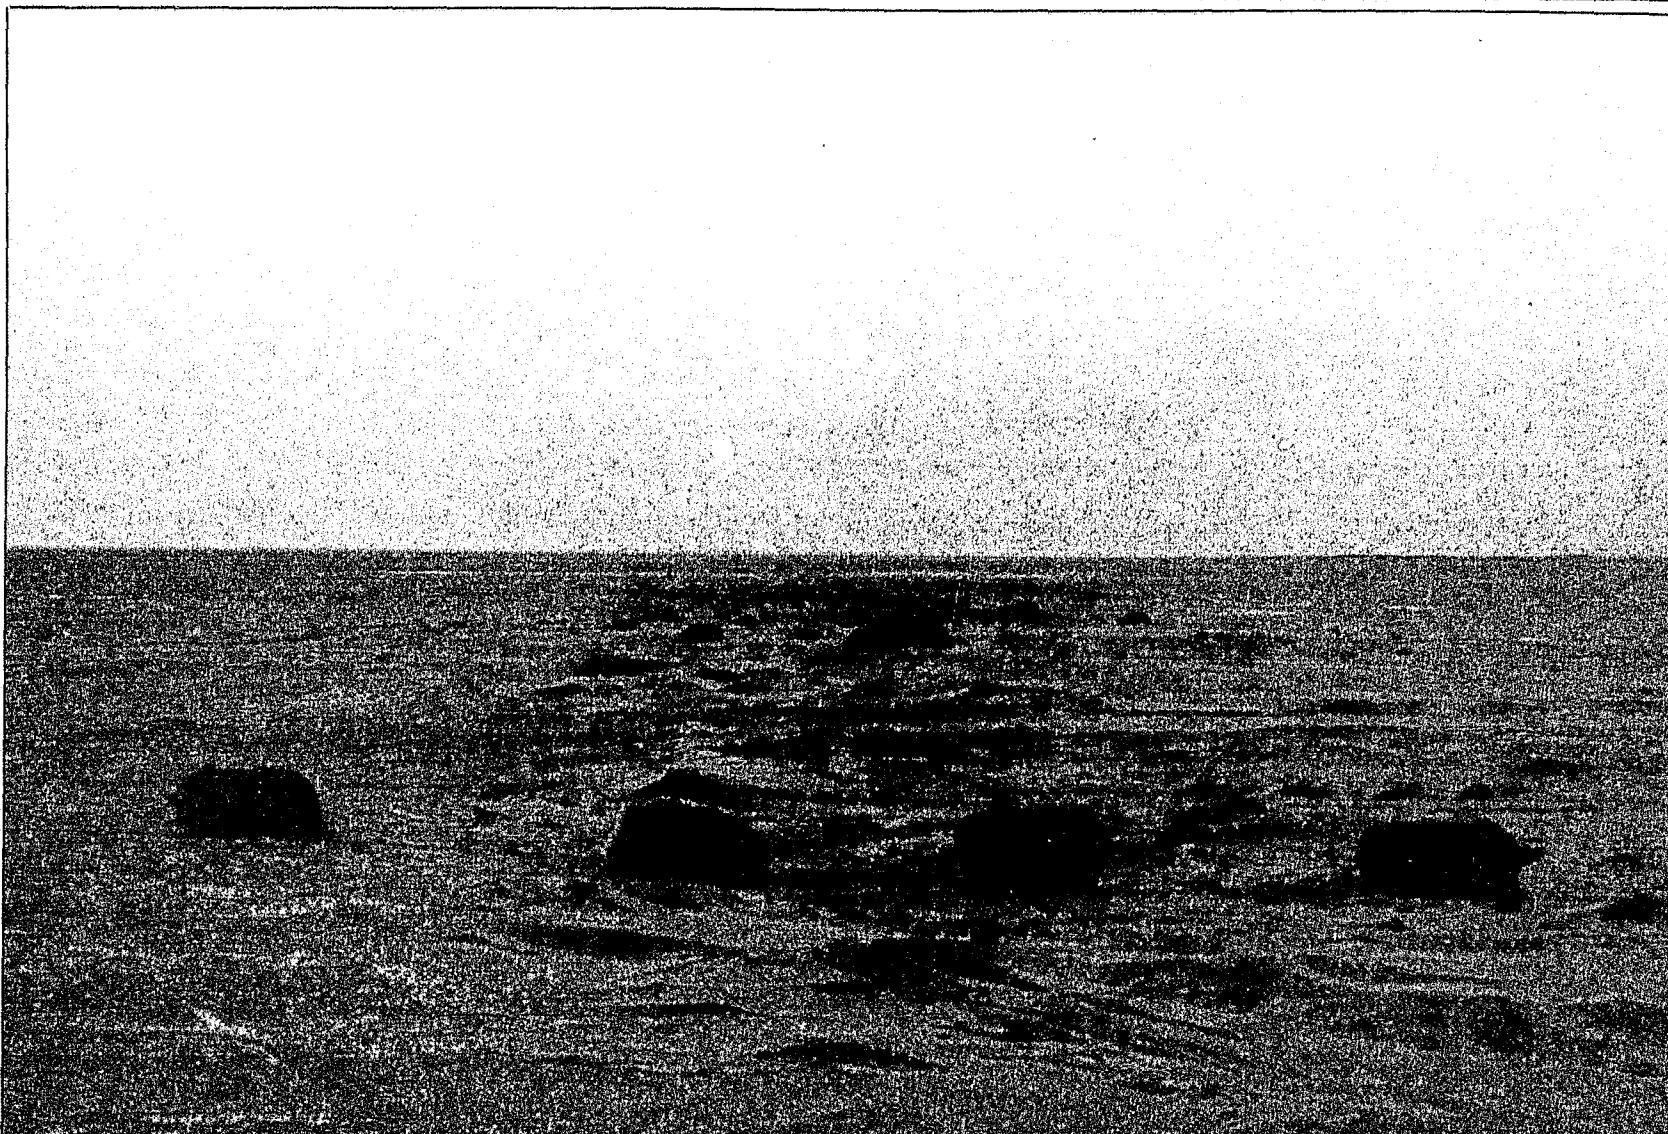

The committee responsible for managing and marketing the former GAMM II property at the Airport Industrial Park has entered into formal negotiations with an interested business according to a spokesman for the group.

Cathy Newell, one of the Airport Industrial Park Committee's six full-time members, declined Friday to identify the business or say if it is seeking to lease or purchase the 21,300-square-foot building which sits on a 4.7 acre parcel of land at the Industrial Park on the Northwest Bethel Road.

"I'm not going to be the one to spill the beans," Newell said.

At a special town meeting April 8, residents here voted overwhelmingly to allow the selectmen-sanctioned

EARLY SPRING, SOMEWHERE ON HUDSON BAY, at approximately 9:30 in the evening the sun has yet to drop below the horizon, but the temperature is rapidly falling toward 35 degrees below zero—and the sled dogs of Mahoosuc Mountain Adventures have curled up for the night. Newry guides Kevin Slater and Polly Mahoney recently spent three weeks exploring, by dogsled, much of the territory threatened by Hydro-Quebec's ambitious expansion plans. They took along a writer from Sports Illustrated, in the hope that national publicity will awaken more people to the plight of the native Cree and Inuit inhabitants of the land the giant utility company plans to flood.

Local guides tour imperiled Quebec

Hydropower's benefits costly to James Bay Cree and Inuit

By WENDY HANSOM

What price are you willing to pay for "cheap, safe, clean" electricity?

Do you want to contribute to Hydro-Quebec's destruction of thousands of acres of traditionally owned native land in Quebec?

Those are the questions that Kevin Slater and Polly Mahoney of Newry would like electricity users in New England and beyond to consider before they flick the switch.

To help make their case, Slater and Mahoney recently guided a writer for Sports Illustrated through much of the territory that would be flooded or otherwise altered if the massive Quebec utility is allowed to move on to Phase Two of its expansion plans.

In the late 1980s, Mainers had a chance to buy into the Hydro-Quebec deal, but state regulators ultimately opted out.

Following an intense lobbying campaign, the state Public Utilities Commission voted two to one in January 1990 against a long-term energy contract with the Quebec utility.

The PUC's decision was based largely on economics. But much of the popular opposition to the project was based on environmental and aesthetic factors—especially in the Andover area, through which Hydro-Quebec planned to run its high voltage lines and 70-to-130-foot-tall transmission towers.

But Hydro-Quebec has energy contracts with other customers in the Northeast and has not given up on plans to expand its generating capacity.

This time around, however, the utility is facing considerable opposition, primarily from environmentalists and native rights activists, who are asking potential customers to consider the plight of the native people in the James Bay area—the Cree and Inuit, who have lived on the land for centuries.

Telstar track squads speed on alien turf

By WENDY HANSOM

Telstar High School's track teams are off and running, despite the perennial problem of having no home track to practice on.

The girls won a recent six-way meet and placed second in Thursday's meet with Mt. Abram and Jay.

Coach John Applin said his team is strong in the distances and jumps, but weak in the sprints and weight events.

The team finished sixth in the Mountain Valley Conference meet last year, Applin said. But this year's team may have a chance to improve on that finish.

"The MVC meet is going to be fascinating this year," Applin said. "We've got about six schools that are pretty close in ability. If the points start to get split up, we could be right in the thick of things."

Applin said he has a number of

More than 260 people and 100 of the four-wheel drive vehicles showed up for this year's jamboree, with drivers coming from 17 states and a number of Canadian provinces. Weather than normal weather forced the closing of one of the jeepers intended trails, but otherwise the rains held off and the visitors were treated to fine riding.

Job bond funds could speed Bethel sewer work

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Bethel's Downtown Revitalization Project, originally intended to be spread out over at least a five year period, may be completed by the end of the current construction season, and for a lot less money than the town thought it would need to spend—but only two big "ifs" come to pass.

If Maine voters approve the $79 million jobs bond on the ballot for the June 9 primary election.

And if the two final, and currently unfunded, phases of the project qualify for funding through that jobs bond.

The two-part jobs bond, along with the additional federal funds it would leverage, would pump roughly $150 million into transportation and economic development projects, with most of the work to take place during the construction season that is just getting underway.

If approved, the projects could create an estimated 7500 direct jobs, plus considerably more indirect positions.

See SEWER WORK, page 9

Riverfront parcel offered to Bethel

If Bethel voters agree, the town could soon have a new, in-town boat launch and picnic site on the banks of the Androscoggin River.

Danny Davis, of L.E. Davis Lumber Company, has offered to give the town a small parcel of land located on Route 26, just west of where the Alder River flows into the Androscoggin.

The parcel is about 1.5 acres in size, and Davis said he was offering it to the town in the hope it could be used as a public boat launch site.

The parcel is part of the former L.E. Davis lumber yard. The company shut down in 1990.

Davis' offer will be put to voters at the annual town meeting next month.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley said both the Friends of the Androscoggin and the Mahoosuc Land Trust have offered to assist the town in managing the parcel or financing possible improvements there.

Woman arrested in Waterford pot bust

By MARY DELAMATER

A South Waterford woman was arrested Monday afternoon on a charge of unlawful furnishing of marijuana after Oxford County Sheriff's Department deputies seized 12 bags of the illegal weed from her car.

Claire Pike, 45, was booked at the Oxford County Jail in South Paris by deputies Christopher Wainwright and Frank Blauvelt Jr., according to Chief Deputy James Davis. She posted bail a short time later and is scheduled to appear in 11th District Court in Paris on June 8 to answer the charge.

An arrest warrant for Pike was issued Monday as a result of a police search of her vehicle Friday near her Bear Pond residence on Route 35, Davis said.

Acting on a tip, he said, Deputy Wainwright found the car in which he observed rolling papers and dried leaf residue on the back window shelf. The officer contacted Deputy District Attorney Craig Turner who advised that the vehicle be impounded and a search warrant obtained, which was done, the chief deputy said.

A locksmith was called to open the trunk of the car, where Wainwright, Sgt. Jon Tibbets and Davis found a small safe which contained 12 bags of marijuana weighing a total of one pound, Davis said.

Letters to the Editor:

REBEL FLAG

To the Editor:

I've waited long enough to voice my opinion on the retirement of the Telstar Rebel Flag. Well here it is.

Once again we allow the pressures of society to do something absolutely ridiculous which constituted no merit whatsoever. To put it simply, they are making a mountain out of a mole hill and have now decided to take down the mountain. Mountains were meant to be climbed. Obstacles are meant to go around or over. To take the easy way out and retire the Rebel Flag without any prior publicity (which would have allowed people to voice their opinions before hand) was no challenge at all. It was done so quietly that it seemed like they were trying to hide it from past graduating classes.

The Confederate flag was a symbol of rebellion to some, but to others, the Confederate flag was a symbol of secession of the Confederate states from the union, on Dec. 20, 1860, when South Carolina in a unanimous vote, voted to secede from the rest of the union, upon which, other states followed. This was nothing to be ashamed about to them. They were doing what they truly believed in. To the Confederate states their flag was their symbol and a symbol flown for what they felt was right.

What the school has said is that it was a bad symbol and we should not fly the Confederate flag. It was just a flag, just like Yosemite Sam is a gun toting mascot. Does this mean people that object to guns are going to demand we change poor old Yosemite. Does this mean that the name Runnin Rebels goes down the tubes. There is history for the school in flags, mascots and names, why change them because of society? Some of the greatest names in this country stood up for what they believed in. This country was built on standing up for beliefs, not on giving in because somebody didn't like what you had to say or do.

It's too bad the administration didn't leave well enough alone and believe that the Confederate flag represented the school in symbolism only and disassociated it from the negativity of hate groups today and other small self serving groups.

I've watched the kids with this flag as they display it at athletic games. I watched last fall as they rallied support to field hockey games. They waved this flag proudly as a sign of support and spirit. I never got the impression that these same students were using it as a symbol of rebellion but as a symbol to continue the pursuit of their teams goals.

It's too bad a poll hadn't been taken by all former and current graduates and students with an explanation of why the flag was to be retired. I bet three quarters of them would have told the administration not to be so foolish and to leave the flag the way it was. As a symbol, and not something students shouldn't be proud of.

I do hope they keep the name Rebels, for to lose that would certainly cast a shadow over Rebels who have graduated and earned their insignias and trophies and jackets today. What kind of a message would that send to change the name also.

I think we should return the Rebel flag back to its rightful place and keep politics right out of it.

NTL'S PLANS

To the Bethel community:

It has been a year since we made our decision to no longer consider Bethel as NTL's primary training site after Summer 1991. This decision was made because of a combination of concern, including:

*Using Bethel for the largest concentration of NTL programs had contributed to some stagnation within NTL.

*Complaints of some members, participants, and staff about operational (especially space) issues in Bethel were a continuing concern.

*Bethel was no longer capable of providing the experience of a large integrated learning community. As was originally the case when we were housed at Gould Academy.

After additional feedback from members, clients and the Bethel community, we decided to review our decision. In March of 1992, a new Bethel Strategic Plan was developed, taking into consideration issues raised and information supplied by NTL members and by the Bethel Task Force. The Plan proposed the dedication and development of NTL Bethel a special focus center for personal and interpersonal focus workshops. It will also be the location for NTL member workshops. We believe this approach takes advantage of Bethel's distinctive nature as well as maintaining Bethel as the historic and spiritual home of NTL.

Implementation of the Bethel Strategic Plan requires our ability to secure funds for 1993, and will include:

*Upgrading the NTL Bethel Conference House for year-round use in order to assure quality facilities in keeping with our strategic emphasis on quality in program delivery.

*Expanding and upgrading our Resource Center. A national mail order business run from the Resource Center is currently under consideration.

*Production of a special brochure to market NTL program in Bethel.

This plan represents the culmination of a long process of exploration, learning and interactive decision-making for NTL and the Bethel community. We believe this new focus on NTL programs in Bethel can foster the unique and distinctive nature of NTL labs that has been our hallmark for over 40 years. We recognize both the difficulties and the opportunities for Bethel that were sparked by our decisionmaking. We deeply appreciate the willingness of various segments of the Bethel community to work with us on the entire matter.

Thank you very much for your support and we look forward to the 1992 season in collaboration with the Bethel community.

TIMBER SALE

To the Editor:

I'd like to give a summation of some impressions and conclusions I have about the proposed Evans Notch District timber sale on the White Mountain National Forest.

Impressions: Forest Service staff determine a cut is desirable and prepare a plan. I assume the plan was drawn using detailed instructions as to content and back-up material.

A group of preservationists throw a "blind" challenge into the appeal process.

The WMNF supervisor reads the plan and finds the challenge warranted.

Conclusions: A good deal of time, effort and tax dollars went into preparing the sale package.

The political climate the plan would face was well known.

The plan was incompletely prepared.

The plan was not reviewed at the highest level prior to public presentation.

The Forest Service should be embarrassed.

Tax dollars are spent, jobs are still waiting to be had, the forest is still in need of tending.

PAST AND PRESENT HAVE MUCH IN COMMON

To the Editor:

Last Thursday night two different events were taking place in Bethel, the black West African Ibo dancing at Gould and the Crescent Park fifth graders' local history skits at Telstar.

In a surprising way the two shows have some things in common. The Ibo dances symbolized long traditions and recounted the tribe's history through refined movements and music. The fifth graders were retelling important moments in Bethel's past in theatrical play acting and narrative.

Both groups "played" or "sang" their past in a colorful, expressive way in order to keep the traditions and feelings of their community alive. As the Telstar audience was engaged in memories of its own past, the Gould audience became involved in the Ibo's past by learning and joining in the Ibo's dances. Each group depends not only on its own energies but on the memories maintained and passed down by community elders and historians.

It struck us also that by bringing the past of different peoples to life here, our present somehow gained in meaning.

FROM THE Bethel Town Office

Now (at last) that the ice skating rink is melted and the cross-country ski trails are reduced to mud, the Recreation Board has been going full tilt on its summer programs. The selection and I would like to formally thank the Recreation Board members for the work they do. Between baseball, softball, tennis, playground and swimming, the Recreation Board members volunteer a year's worth of time in a single season. And then they provide the winter programs, as well.

This year's ball teams are all set, and practice has begun. There are eight Bethel teams fielded this year, including one softball team. The majors, minors, and rookies are registered with the Bambino League, and the remaining teams play among themselves in a more informal setting.

A special thanks to Alberta and Neil Merrill, Dewaine Craig, Jim Osgood, Neil Donovan and Gary White for working on the new fence at the Little League field last Saturday.

Tennis will be offered again this year, and the board is still working on the details of summer playground.

The Recreation Board is having difficulty locating a Red Cross certified swimming instructor. Any one interested in taking this paid position, or aware of a person who might be interested, please call a Recreation Board member or the town manager. If a certified instructor is not found, the swimming program may be offered anyway, but with a noncertified instructor.

I wanted to bring forward a piece of information about town recreation activities which seems not to be widely known. Except for the ball program—which we insure in order to be eligible for the league—juries sustained while participating in any program are not the responsibility of the town.

Maine municipalities are immune from liability for damages caused by recreational programs.

I don't bring this up to discourage anyone from joining in the fun—but you should know that a trip to the health center will be at your own expense.

No billionaire king for America

By MIKE BROWN

Mainers should think twice about wasting their time, energy and vote on Henry Ross Perot, the 61 year old Texas billionaire who would be King of the United States.

Perot backers apparently have enough signatures to put him on the Maine ballot in November as an Independent. The signatories should have first reflected on a most recent Maine debacle of an Independent in high political office. James B. Longley's 1976-80 tenure as governor was an utter disaster, from which the state is still a recovering taxaholic.

More recently, in the 1988 presidential election Maine voters turned out in 65 percent numbers (556,695) to vote for Bush (55.4 percent) or Dukakis (43.9 percent). And although the "majority party" in Maine is the unenrolled or Independents (284,414 in 1988), the Independent fringe candidates that year received .7 percent of the vote. That's not even a protest.

Perot back-slappers in 1992 should reminisce about how Independents have been accepted in national politics. John Anderson and George Wallace never broke 10 percent.

Before these two modern day political palookas there was one heavyweight. Teddy Roosevelt, out of office for four years, invented the Bull Moose party and in 1912 captured 27 percent of the vote. It didn't do Teddy much good, but his best-ever-before-or-since Independent showing denied a second term to Republican William Howard Taft and hand-delivered the election to Democrat Woodrow Wilson.

If Perot licks into a footnote on American political pages it will probably be as spoiler for George Bush or Bill Clinton.

Perot has no platform, no agenda, no answers to the social and economic ills of the country. He cannot be bothered with the political screening process that America has insisted upon since the Constitution was adopted. In essence, Perot would scrap the Constitution and substitute some kind of electronic town hall form of government. That is just plain anarchism.

The thin-skinned Texas billionaire, who made the heft of his fortune from Uncle Sam, including reaping enormous profits for Medicare and Medicaid computer contracts, decries the system but his family has donated half a million dollars to candidates including a $200,000 contribution to Nixon's campaign in

Perot is a political opportunist whose flavor of the week is to populistically bombast whatever candidate is getting the most political heat from the electorate. His campaign, if 50 state fringe petitions can be called a campaign, is to buy the presidency with whatever millions it takes and tell the people—"Just trust me, I'm one of you."

Perot is the sweetheart squeeze of the national media, especially network television, because they need anything for news. He is more a candidate of the national media than the people. And for a good reason. Perot would be the cash longhorn steer for network television. He says he would run an electronic presidency, whatever that is, and who would reap the billions sown by Perot's own deep pockets plus that of the U.S. government? The Rath-Jennings/Brook bunch, that's who.

The Maine signatories to the Perot petitions should wonder why their choice has not come under the scalpel of national media except for the nerfball theatrics of such egocentric entertainment interviewers as David Frost and Larry King. Perot's most negative comment came from a newspaper in Texas who said he looked like a gerbil with a cheap haircut.

There is plenty of investigative journalism fodder packed around Perot. Just one example. The Perot family is developing a huge industrial complex around the Alliance Airport in Fort Worth. U.S. taxpayers paid for the cargo airport, $46 million so far. The Perots want the taxpayers to kick in another $120 million to expand the airport facility and have hired top Washington Beltway lobbyists to make sure it happens. The Perot Group, by the way, owns 18,000 acres surrounding the airport. And Perot decries special interests?

And finally, a woman who worked for a Perot company says random drug and urinalysis tests are required of employees all the time. And more empirical rules including requests by Herbert Ross Perot himself for a woman to change a lipstick color that he doesn't like.

The American history books have met Teddy Roosevelt. The American people know Teddy Roosevelt. And Henry Ross Perot is no Teddy Roosevelt.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Over 200 parents, grandparents, relatives and members of the Bethel Historical Society gathered at Telstar Regional High School's Helen Berry Auditorium to hear members of Crescent Park School's fifth grade social studies class perform a pageant of Bethel's history.

Researched, written and performed by students, this series of skits provides a perspective on Bethel's past from its earliest days to the 20th century. This event, held on May 7, is one of several activities held throughout the school year in cooperation with the Bethel Historical Society.

Special thanks for the success go to all the parents and friends and to the teacher Miss Newcomb who spent so many hours on the project.

A reception honoring Miss Newcomb and the students was held at the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room following the pageant.

A special genealogical seminar will be held at the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room on June 16, beginning at 7 p.m. Featured speaker for the evening will be Ron Bremer of Salt Lake City, Utah, who has written and lectured widely on the subject of genealogical research. This event will be hosted by the Society's Genealogical Committee: Mabel Kennett, chair, Floribell Haines, Alden Kennett, Nancy H. Mercer, Judy Barker, Gloria Snyder, Mariann Durgin, Mary Keniston, Jane Hosterman, and Barbara Honkala. More details concerning the seminar will be announced in early June. Anyone wishing further information should call 207-824-2908 or write P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Me., 04217-0012.

committee to lease the building space in lieu of a bona fide purchase offer.

"I think that vote demonstrated the people's willingness to trust the committee," said Newell. "We will do what's best for the town in terms of job creation and economic development."

Newell said the committee, which has been exchanging proposals and counter-proposals with the unnamed business "for a couple of weeks," has not yet specified a date by which time they'd like to wind up the negotiations.

"Obviously, we'd like to get to the stage where things seem to be progressing, or else we'll get tuned up to start over," said Newell.

Since January, when the volunteer committee convened its first meeting and began in earnest to advertise the building, Newell said the group has received "a number of inquiries" and requests for additional information from businesses interested in relocating to the area.

"But, due to these negotiations, I'd say the last week or two have been rather more intense," Newell said.

The building, which has been vacant since GAMM II's parent company, the New Hampshire-based Plymouth Trust, closed down its Bethel operation in 1990, will this week be listed in the Maine Commercial Properties Index, which is published twice annually, Newell said.

"We are continuing to push the property," she said.

The committee's reluctance to simply unload the property, which will likely be paid for completely by a grant from the Farmer's Home Administration, recently prompted the resignation of one of the committee's members.

In a letter to selectmen, committee member Pat Dooen stated that the group's refusal to draft a lease agreement which includes either a 90-day vacating clause or a provision requiring prospective lessees to match a purchase offer "placed (Dooen) in direct opposition" to other members of the committee.

Because residents explicitly voted at the April 8 meeting to authorize the board to sell the property, Dooen wrote that "any proposal for leasing this building should contain an agreement for the purchase within a short period of time."

Asked about Dooen's resignation, Newell said "the committee was, philosophically, in a different mode" than Dooen.

"I guess, realizing this, Pat just felt that her efforts would be better spent elsewhere, on other projects," Newell said.

Gould students inducted into National Honor Society

Gould Academy Associate Headmaster Dr. Harry Dresser keynoted the annual undergraduate academic awards program prior to inducting new members of the National Honor Society and naming student leaders for the 1992-93 school year.

Dresser cited recent events in Los Angeles in calling on students to look beyond personal achievement and search for unifying themes.

"Two unifying themes we should pay particular attention to are civility toward all people and service to groups, organizations, and institutions which serve people."

Newly elected members include sophomores Patrick Cote, Farmington; Phoebe Hausman-Rogers, Bethel; juniors Darcie Burnell, Harrison; Eric Stirling, Greenville; and seniors Anne Jurgelait, Bangor, and Liese Stevens, Amherst, N.H. To be eligible, a student must earn a minimum scholarship average of 85. Each candidate is evaluated for service, leadership and character by one of the faculty.

Members of this year's junior class elected to the National Honor Society in their sophomore year, or at other schools and initiated at that time were: Brendan Cook, Intervale, N.H.; Jason Knight, St. Albans, Vt.; Samantha Langlois, Bethel; Amy Todd, Bethel; and Meredith Otten, Newry. Seniors previously elected were Jennifer Baldwin, Newcastle; Susan Crandall, Bethel; Molly Gartrell, Warner, N.H.; Bryce Gasser, Bethel; and Amanda Wight, Bethel.

The student proctors who will comprise the student leadership program for Gould Academy for the 1992-93 academic year were announced by Dean of Student Life Lorenzo Baker. Responsibilities will include assisting and leading the new student orientation camping trips in the fall.

Elected after an evaluation of this year's junior class by the student body and faculty are Brendan Cook, Intervale, N.H.; Amy Todd, Bethel; Briana Bateman, Damariscotta; Page Hadden, Portland; John Burrill, Southwest Harbor; Jason Knight, St. Albans, Vt.; Kate Callahan, Wilson, Wyo.; Chae Jung, Korea; Eric Stirling, Greenville; Julie Gagnon, Durham, N.H.; Omar Robinson, Bermuda; Carrie Alden, Auburn; Kristin Petrone, Denmark; Darci Burnell, Harrison; Adrian Higgins, Vineyard Haven, Mass.

Students of the day this week in grade two have been: Steven Bennett, Ben Blake, Devin Coffin, Jessica Duplisea, and Jason Emery.

The third-graders are learning to write in cursive, continuing with addition and subtraction in math, preparing projects for their machine show and writing about camping.

The fourth-graders, who took the MEA, Maine Educational Assessment test, were not included in our week of achievement testing, however they were given the Otis-Lennon Ability Test. This is one of the screening procedures to identify children who qualify for the district's Gifted and Talented Program.

The fifth-graders are writing one last letter to their pen pals, and are telling them all about our trip to Boston. We are working on final writing to be included in the writing folder along with a writing from September. We hope to see some growth and improvement. We are studying space in science and this week's spelling test will also be a science test, to name the planets in the correct order from the sun. We do know that even though Pluto has the most distant orbit, at the present time it has crossed orbits with Neptune. So until 1999, Neptune is the last planet in our order.

The sixth-graders are looking forward to their field trip to Kettle Cove on June 1. They have been studying marine biology and oceanography. This week they created a bulletin board full of ocean life. They have been presenting their World War II projects and reports. And, as other grades, they are working on a final, "best," writing to be placed in their cumulative folders.

Newry drops trash pick up

Newry selectmen announced Tuesday that the town will stop picking up trash door-to-door on May 26.

At Town Meeting, several voters complained that the service was costly and unnecessary. The selectmen said then they would discuss eliminating the service.

At their regular meeting Tuesday, selectmen decided to discontinue the pickup. After May 26, residents will be asked to take their trash to dumpster at the town office, Sunday River Fire station or other neighborhood dumpsters.

The recycling containers now located at Sunday River Ski Resort will be moved to the Sunday River Fire Station.

Selectmen also announced that Sunday River Fire Station clean-up day has been scheduled for May 30 at 10 a.m. There will be a potluck lunch.

The town's Memorial Day services will be held May 24 at 12 noon. The service will be preceded by light refreshments served at 11 a.m.

PROJECT GRADUATION BRUNCH

The Community Chemical Awareness Team is sponsoring a brunch to benefit Project Graduation on May 17 from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Telstar High School cafeteria.

Local church members will be bringing casseroles, salad, rolls and muffins for the brunch.

Anyone who would like to donate food for the event can contact Lillian Conant at Telstar.

Tickets are $10 for a family of four, $4 for adults and $2 for children.

What a week. Our mornings have been taken up with achievement testing. The SRA tests have been replaced by the CTBS, California Test of Basic Skills. Attendance has been good, but there will be some make-up testing done this next week.

May activities and dates have been set. On Wednesday, May 13, our first official PTA meeting will be held in the school library at 7 p.m. Come find out what is happening.

The date for our play, "Robin Hood," has been set. Reserve Thursday evening, May 28. We will start prompt at 7 p.m.

Thursday, May 14, is our final library day with Mrs. Davis. Her suggested topics include authors of the month James Marshall and Patricia McKissack, Once Upon a Time...In the 90s, and Seeds for Summer Reading. Teachers are always invited to suggest topics appropriate to their own classroom work also.

Tuesday through Friday, May 12 through 15, will be the SAD #17 Art Show. It will be held at the new school in Oxford and all are invited to attend. It will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday and from 9 a.m. to noon on Friday.

There will be a schedule for different schools to attend during the school day, and West Paris grades two through six will be going on Friday, May 15, in the morning. We will be back at school for lunch.

On Wednesday, May 13, the fourth grade will be going to Augusta for the annual trip that is part of that grade's Maine Studies program.

Also on the 15th, the fifth grade will be having an afternoon field trip to the Oxford Hills Lanes to bowl with their pen pals from Norway. There will be a spelling test and poetry recitations in the morning before all the fun begins.

June 16 is the last day of school at this point. We can't have more snow at this late date, can we? We are planning our annual field day to be held at Hebron Academy on June 12, with a rain date of June 15.

Two field trips took place this past week. The kindergarten classes and the first grade traveled to Portland City Hall to see the "Wizard of Oz." They were right down front and had the pleasure of shaking hands with the cast of characters after the show. The second-graders visited Stephen's Memorial Hospital. One of the highlights of this trip was seeing newborn twins. We truly appreciate our parent volunteers for raising the money to fund all these trips.

Folks, I think spring is here. The bluebirds are here, the sun is shining most every day, and the least part of the time, watching the bluebirds and the swallows away from the trees.

Monday the temperature is in the 50s. Felt good. Played cards, as usual. When we get home, I had my bags packed for Auburn, and then Mass., where we spent the night.

The next morning I had an appointment with a speech therapist. I had left, an old friend and his wife, called to guess what they made quite fun to re-live Folks, I think spring is really coming. The bluebirds are busy, and the sun is shining most every day, for at least part of the time. We have fun watching the bluebirds drive the swallows away from their houses.

Monday the temperature got into the 50s. Felt good. Peggy did her cards, as usual. When she got home, I had my bags packed, and we left for Auburn, and then on to Saugus, Mass., where we spent the night.

The next morning I had a 10 a.m. appointment with a specialist on the problem I have with my neck. After we had left, an old friend, Herby Allen and his wife, called on Russell. I guess they made quite a visit. It is fun to re-live many of the old times. Herby's family were neighbors when we kids were growing up, and Herby graduated from Woodstock High School with Russell.

Tuesday was another real nice day. In the forenoon Russell had physical therapy treatment on his neck. Nonie, Peggy, and I returned from Boston around 3 p.m. When we came into the house, Russell gave us the bad news that Tom had fallen down some stairs, and was in serious condition. He was visiting Bryce and wife, Barbara. He was looking out the front window, and had some kind of a spell, so he passed out and fell down some stairs. He was rushed to Rumford Hospital, and then to C.M.C. in Lewiston. He never regained consciousness. He died around 8:30 p.m. This has been a terrible shock to all the family and his friends. He had been talking some of joining Bryce and Barbara in Alaska, this summer. I hope they will still go, as they have made their plans, and nothing can bring Tom back to us.

Laura came over from East Andover, and went along with Peggy to help notify people about the memorial service, as well as other errands. Peggy was glad of her help.

Thursday was a mostly sunny day, but clouded up in the afternoon. Peggy drove us downtown to get our groceries, as she would be doing her stores on Friday. After shopping, we swung down back of the apartment building to see if Jeffrey was there, as he had to get his dad's things out of the apartment. He was there, as was Bryce, Barb, and his son, Jason. We found out that they needed boxes, so we came home; loaded the boxes we had gathered over the winter, into Russell's pickup, and Peggy took them down; then she helped fill them, until the apartment was bare. After this was done, Peggy went to Laverdiere's in South Paris to do part of her job. It was a busy day for everyone. Work helped keep everyone's minds from straying.

Friday, May 1, the start of another month. The Salvation Army Ladies were out selling poppies. It was another nice day, and Peggy left early to do her cards. She put in a long day. This is the season when several special holidays overlap, and she has a lot to do. Russell started planting some of his seeds in the cold frame. He planted both flowers and Charlotte Cole and Iona Osnoe called during the afternoon. They were hoping to catch Peggy home, but her friend, Pauline Kennison had come up, and they had gone to West Bethel to see her daughter and family, the Emerson Merills. They also visited James and Mary Merrill. Pauline got a tour of both log houses.

Peggy stopped in to see her friend, Bertha Benoit, on Saturday. She has just had an operation on one knee. She seems to be doing okay.

Impi and Raymond Mack attended a birthday party for Veino Heikkinen in Turner last Sunday, April 26. Helena Bartlett was at Mary Lovejoy's on Monday. They went to Norway and Helena got her new glasses.

West Paris had an excellent turnout for their first dance in May. Eighty-six was the count. I'm sure they all had a grand time.

Sunday, April 26 Mary and husband, Archie, called on Ellie Connell at her trailer home in Oxford.

June 6 and June 13 will be dance nights at West Paris Grange Hall. We hope you will all mark your calendar, and join the group for some real fun.

Enjoy the sun when it shines. Later we will have lots more of it.

While on our way to Gorham one day, Karlene Bachelder and I spotted a young moose digging up roots in swampy water.

The Newry Ladies Circle met at the Newry Bowling Gang who went to Oxford Lanes bowling were Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Bea Lowell, Jane Young, Sylvia Wight and Olive Anderson. Betsy of the "lefties" was high on the triples beating Gil by four pins and she was also high on the singles beating Gil by two pins.

Of the "righties" Jane was high on the singles and also high on the triples.

On the way back home, Karlene and Betsy stopped to pick some mayflowers. Karlene says there was a moose roaming around in her backyard, he left his calling card...

NATIVE GUIDES--Polly Mahoney of Mahoosuc Mountain Adventures in Newry, poses with Inuit guide Freddy Akoomak and Cree guide Abraham Snowboy in the Northern Quebec village of Whapmagoostui. While Slater and Mahoney travelled by dog sled around the proposed site of Hydro-Quebec's next expansion, the native guides stuck with snowmachines and used radios to report the pair's progress.

Hydro-Quebec

The activists say the Cree have already suffered from Hydro-Quebec's first phase. They want to stop Hydro-Quebec from entering into its next phase of development, which they say would further destroy Cree culture and adversely influence the Inuit.

Phase One

The first phase of the James Bay Hydro-Quebec project began in 1971 and was completed in 1985. Five major rivers were dammed or diverted, forming huge reservoirs that flooded thousands of acres of wilderness--lands that Cree families hunted, fished, trapped and drew their livelihood from.

The results were as tragic as they were predictable.

For example, the Cree community of Fort George at the mouth of the La Grande River on James Bay was relocated further north to the village of Chisasibi--where the relocated natives now suffer from alcoholism, drug abuse and an increased suicide rate.

Slater and many native rights activists blame these social problems on the destruction of the Cree's traditional way of life.

"The moral question of Hydro-Quebec has never been addressed--Do native people have the right to determine what's going to happen on land they've inhabited for 2,000 or 3,000 years?" Slater asked.

"Families traditionally owned 250 square miles of property. Some of that land is now underwater," he said. "They hunted and trapped the land, moving their camps around so as not to deplete one area."

"Another impact that Hydro-Quebec has failed to assess is that the Cree can't eat fish out of any of the reservoirs or rivers associated with Phase One, because of the toxic levels of mercury."

"When a spruce forest is flooded uncut, organic compounds of mercury are released. As the trees and vegetation decay they release a lot of mercury. It gets into the food chain. Anything that feeds on fish is affected too. The people can't eat the seals or anything else that eats fish. They can't even feed it to their dogs. A lot of older people in Chisasibi have gotten mercury poisoning."

Canadian courts are currently debating native land rights, Slater said.

The Boundaries Extension Act of 1912 gave this former part of the Northwest Territory to Quebec, Slater said, but "compared to the thousands of years the Cree owned it, that isn't long."

The Cree signed an agreement with Hydro-Quebec in the mid-1970s and took a payoff from the utility company.

"The Cree entered into the agreement while construction was happening," Slater said. "Billy Diamond, the Grand Chief at the time said he likened it to doing business with a pistol to his head. It was already given. The roads were in and construction had begun."

"That agreement is also in dispute," he said. "The Cree say their interpretation of the agreement was that it gave Hydro-Quebec permission for Phase One. Hydro-Quebec says it gave them permission for phases one, two and three."

Phase Two

Plans for Phase Two of Hydro-Quebec calls for the destruction or diversion of 15 major rivers, more flooding, the possible disruption of the caribou migration and the loss of additional native hunting and ancient burial grounds, according to native rights activists.

"The project will impact an area greater than New York State and New England combined," Slater said. "It will cause more medical problems and a large percentage of families will lose their traditional hunting and trapping territories."

"There are also generations of natives buried there," he said. "It's a very sensitive issue."

"Compare both phases of it to the Maine government saying they're going to flood Bear and Sunday River valleys," he said. "They'd say, 'we're just going to move you out and build a new village, but we're not going to move the bodies of your relatives. We're just going to do it because Maine needs the power.'

"There's no way that they'd get away with it here, so what gives Hydro-Quebec the right to do it to native people? They have even less of a right because the native people have been there so long."

In Phase Two, no villages are scheduled now for relocation. But new road construction would connect the northern Inuits to the south for the first time.

Native rights activists say the roads won't bring progress to the natives. They will instead introduce the same social problems that the Cree of Fort George experienced when their relocation forced them into the 20th century--alcoholism, drug abuse and an increased suicide rate.

girls who are consistently scoring: Amy Howe, 800 meter run and the 1,600; Solai Buchanan, the 1,600 and 3,200; Trinity Knoll, long and triple jump and middle distances; Chelby Caveloro, high jump; Augusta Yates, 100 and 300 meter hurdles and long jump; Robin Michaud, 100 and 300 hurdles; Terri Applin, the 400; Yolanna Rotford, discus and Sheri Myers, triple jump.

The Rebel 4-by-400 relay team is also starting to gel. Knoll, Myers, Applin and Howe took first at Thursday's three-way meet. They turned in the second fastest time in the MVC this season, coach Applin said.

Monday the girls beat Madison in a two-way meet.

One of the team's biggest disadvantage is that all its meets are on the road, because Telstar doesn't have a track.

The boys and girls both practice wherever space is available. They set up a few hurdles in the back parking lot, along with the high jump pit. The weight people hurl the shot put, javelin and discus someplace out of the way of their teammates and other spring sports teams. The boys haven't won any meets yet, but are turning in some good personal performances, said coach Russell Tornrose.

"When they go to a meet," Tornrose said, "They're seeing real conditions and distances for the first time. They have great spirit and attitude, but they're working against a lot. They're good kids and they work real hard."

We have depth and are improving in the field events. We also have strong high jumpers. We're scoring, even against kids with more practice on a real track.

"We've got some speed in the sprints, but we're really hurting in the hurdles. We're trying to move some people into it and we're working with some freshmen in the distance."

The Rebel boys have had four meets so far. They took fourth in a six-way meet and third in two other three-way meets.

The boys are getting some scoring from: David Hanscom, long jump;

Matt Bean, the 400 and long jump; Scott Higgins, javelin; Troy Wing, 100 and 300 hurdles; Lawrence Grover and George Bethel, shotput; Joel Riley the 800 and 3,200; Zachary Chamberlin, Todd Wing and Bo Smith, high jumpers; Eric Currier, mile; Greg Corrin, pole vault; and discus; Scott Emery, sprints and Victor Hart, the 100 and 200 sprints.

Fred Burk has been a strong distance runner in the past, but is suffering from knee problems this spring. Tornrose said Burk is running a few races as his injury improves.

The 4-by-400 relay team of Dustin Howe, Currier, Grover and Chamberlin or Hart has also come in first in a couple of meets, Tornrose said.

"We have a lot of people on the team who are picking up points and improving their personal goals," he said. "I don't know that we'll ever be a powerhouse, until the kids have a track to work out on. I'm real proud of these kids. They work hard and are dedicated. That's the important thing."

place out of the way of their teammates and other spring sports teams.

The total cost of this summer's work, including associated expenses such as interest and engineering work, is expected to be approximately $485,000.

Phase Two is being funded by a combination of loans and grants from the Farmers Home Administration. The funding package was approved by voters at a special town meeting last month.

A timetable for the project will be worked out between the town and the contractor when the construction contract is finalized, Henley said.

The two last phases, the Mill Hill/Park Street Phase and Church and Broad Streets Phase are estimated to cost $333,000 and $447,000 respectively, and were originally due to be completed in the final years of the project.

Lower Main Street work

Job bond or no job bond, part of the village center will once again be "dirty, dusty and noisy" this summer, as phase two of the revitalization project gets underway.

Bids were opened Friday for Phase Two work, which will include, in addition to Lower Main Street, parts of Railroad, Cross and Vernon streets.

A.R. Couture Construction Corp. of Berlin was the lowest of six bidders on the project, at $362,315. Henley said she expects the bid to be awarded as soon as the town's engineering firm has had time to examine the bid specification.

The total cost of this summer's work, including associated expenses such as interest and engineering work, is expected to be approximately $485,000.

Phase Two is being funded by a combination of loans and grants from the Farmers Home Administration. The funding package was approved by voters at a special town meeting last month.

A timetable for the project will be worked out between the town and the contractor when the construction contract is finalized, Henley said.

The summer's work is about half the size of last summer's upper Main Street project, and will consist mainly of replacing sewer and septic lines.

The upper Main Street project also involved replacing some water mains, but the mains in the lower Main Street area are newer and will not need repair, Henley said.

Tentative plans also call for lowering some of the elevated sidewalks along lower Main Street, in order to increase the space available for on-street parking on both sides of the street.

As is the case with all Bethel's revitalization work, home and business owners will be responsible for the cost of hooking up their sewer and storm (non septic) lines to the new town lines.

And the two types of lines must be separated, Henley stressed, since the point of the whole revitalization project is to reduce the amount of non septic (inflow and infiltration) water passing through the town's sewer treatment plant.

BANCORP EARNINGS UP
Bethel Bancorp has announced earnings results for the third quarter ended March 31, 1992.

Bethel Bancorp (NASDAQ-BTHL), the parent company of Bethel Savings Bank F.S.B. and Brunswick Federal Savings, F.A. has announced that the company earned $293,617, or $5.52 per share, for the third quarter ended March 31, 1992. These results compare with earnings of $212,571, or $3.78 per share, for the same period in 1991. Results for the nine month period ended March 31, 1992 were earnings of $832,591, or $1.42 per share, versus $739,909, or $1.31 per share, for the same period in fiscal 1992.

solidate the clothes into one area.

Superintendent Dewaine Craig and Board Buildings and Grounds Chairman Ray Harrington both supported the proposal.

Craig said the group's plan would cost the district little or no money. "One of the locations that the clothes are stored now is at the bus garage," he said. "It would help us and it would get out to people a lot better if everything was consolidated."

Following the board meeting, Wheeler said an organizational meeting to help establish the community exchange has been scheduled for tonight (Wednesday) at 5 p.m. at the town office.

In other business, the board also accepted personnel resignations and made several personnel appointments.

The board accepted the resignation of part-time Woodstock Elementary School guidance counselor Lorraine LaTou and Andover Elementary School part-time principal Wendy Ford.

Ford, who is also a part-time guidance counselor at AES, will keep that position and will also replace LaTou at WES.

Charles Plummer was approved as part-time AES principal. His salary was set at $18,499, with $2,430 in benefits for a 125 day work year.

Plummer was also appointed to share the Academic Standards Steering Committee coordinator position with David Murphy. Plummer and Murphy will split the $5,000 a year.

The board also approved JoAnn Crockett as interim kitchen manager at Telstar High School and Barbara Dunham as softball coach at WES.

What's coming to West Paris?

By MARK SHANAHAN

West Paris residents who have seen the dump truck and bulldozers working in the field at the junction of Route 219 and 26 are wondering what's going on there.

So are town officials.

"I've been told it's going to be a mini-mall," said Town Clerk Dian Stimson.

"I think it's going to be some sort of commercial building, but you ought to speak to the Planning Board chairman," said Selectman Howard Guney.

"I haven't heard anything," said Fred Oja, the chairman of the West Paris Planning Board. "Well, quite a while ago I heard it was going to be supermarket, but I don't know now."

In fact, even Ken Poland, who owns the three-acre parcel says he's not just sure what he's doing with the property.

"It's going to be a commercial lot," Poland said, "but I don't know yet what's going on there."

Because the town does not have building ordinance, Poland is not required to file for a permit to develop the lot.

Land trust will host open house and bird watching trip

The Mahoosuc Land Trust will officially open an office upstairs in the Maine Street Realty building with an open house all day, Monday, May 18, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Trust Executive Director Marcel Polak. The Trust has invited the public to drop by for a light refreshment or to ask questions about the Trust's work in land protection, conservation easements, and their relationship to tax and estate planning issues.

Polak and members of the Trust's board of directors will be on hand throughout the day. The organization is also soliciting donations of office furniture, file cabinets, an answering machine, a computer, telephone, paper supplies or any other basic items to equip a small office, all of which are tax-deductible gifts.

The trust's first field trip of the season is a bird watching trip to Maurice Kendall Island on Saturday,

May 16. The short canoe and walking tour will be led by Polak, who will aid participants in identifying song birds by sight and sound. The trip leaves at 8 a.m. from Newt's Landing in West Bethel, and will last a few hours.

There is no charge, and people needing a canoe or a ride should call Polak at the trust's new office, 824-3806, or at his home, 665-2577.

The Mahoosuc Land Trust is a non-profit organization dedicated to conserving natural areas, educating citizens about the area's plant and wildlife resources, and assisting communities balance economic growth with natural resource conservation.

The trust holds a conservation easement on a 204 acre farm in Upton, and has received outright donations of the Eva Schools Canoe Landing and the Maurice Kendall Island, both on the Androscoggin River in Bethel.

PEARL HARBOR SURVIVOR—On December 4, 1942 Army Cpl. Henry Robertson of Bethel was stationed at Schofield Barracks near Pearl Harbor. He was recently awarded the Pearl Harbor Commemorative Medal for his defense of Pearl Harbor against the Japanese surprise attack.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

Past Unit presidents were honored as special guests when the new officers of Jackson-Silver American Legion Post and Auxiliary were installed on Thursday, May 7. Of the 23 living past presidents, 17 attended the festivities. All stood, were recognized and presented small gifts. They were Fannie Cummings, also a past department president; Ruth Morgan Leino; Grace Smith; Vera Cross; Sylvia Dunham; Margery Swan; Beverly Melville, a past department music chairman; Leah Deegan; Mary Lyon; Noreen Russo; and Kathleen McAllister. Absent were Rosalia Bachelder; Elizabeth Bailey; Lois Day; Carmen Nadeau; Carolyn B. Smith; and Ann Bickford. The Unit has been trying to obtain pictures of each of these ladies when they were president and had a photographer on hand to take pictures before Thursday's ceremonies in case the search for the previous ones is unsuccessful.

Installing officer, Mona Lowe, and her team of chaplain, Jeri Greenwell and sergeant-at-arms, Susan Canwell, installed the new slate of officers. They are president, Kathleen McAllister; first vice president, Kathy Bartlett; second vice president, Noreen Russo; secretary, Olive Risko; treasurer, Vera Cross; chaplain, Sylvia Dunham; historian, Noreen Russo. Sergeant-at-arms, Lillian Herrick, recovering at home from recent surgery, will be installed at a later date.

Refreshments of strawberry shortcake and coffee were served afterward, at which time all could socialize before retiring to the meeting room to take care of other business.

Poppy Chairman Vera Cross announced that Casey Mason is this year's Poppy Girl and that Poppy Days for Greenwood and Woodstock will be May 15-17. For more than 70 years the poppy has been the memorial flower of the American Legion and Auxiliary. They are distributed each year in memory of those servicemen and women who died in battle. The monetary contributions which the public gives in return are used exclusively for rehabilitation and financial needs of our veterans and their families. The poppy is not sold. It is given out and worn as a tribute and the recipients contribute if they wish, in whatever amount they please.

Applications for transfer to Jackson-Silver Unit were received from Lois George and Elizabeth Mills and accepted.

On Wednesday, May 13, members will meet at the Legion Hall in preparation for attending graveside committal services for Frank York. They will also take part in Memorial Day services on May 24 at the Newry Town Hall and May 25 in Greenwood, Woodstock and the usual others.

A contribution to the Locke Mills church was voted in memory of Marion Swan.

Plans for the coming year include a music program in September which Mary Lyon has begun preparing.

The next meeting is May 21 at which time plans will be completed for Memorial Day.

HUNTING ACCIDENTS DOWN

The final report on hunter safety in Maine for 1991 indicates there were only 13 shooting incidents during the whole year.

Figures compiled by the Safety Division of the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife reveal that none of those incidents resulted in a fatality and, for the first time ever, there were no incidents in which the victim was mistaken for game.

Mahoosuc Arts notes:

The final Mahoosuc Arts Program in the Schools, "The Art of Black Dance and Music," was the "ultimate experience." Four talented performers from the Boston area enlightened as well as excited students, staff, and faculty at two assembly programs for Telstar High School and Middle School. De Ama Battle, the A.B.D.'s director, easily captured the audience by inviting them to share their international heritage thus providing a smooth segway into the cultural backgrounds of group members (African and Native American).

In addition to disclosure about personal cultural background, the performers introduced the audience to percussive instruments with origins in parts of Africa such as Senegal and Guinea.

The audience was also introduced to dance and movement rooted in African heritage such as the "welcome dance" which originated from Liberia and Nigeria. Each movement in the dance communicates a special message, i.e., the free opening of arms outwards symbolizes trust, openness, and being "without weapons"—a dance of peace and hospitality. Time was set aside in the program to ask questions of the

FOREST REIMBURSEMENTS

Forest landowners are eligible to receive 75 percent of the cost of replanting forest land, planting trees on cleared land, forest improvements, enhancement of wetlands and forest land along water bodies, and other forest management practices under the Stewardship Incentive Program (SIP) according to John Cashwell, director of the Maine Forest Service.

"This new United States Forest Service program will help Maine's private, non-industrial woodlot owners improve timber, wildlife, water quality, and recreational values on their property," Cashwell said.

Owners of between ten and ten-thousand acres who have an approved Forest Stewardship Plan developed by a resource professional are eligible to participate in the SIP Program. Landowners are eligible to receive 50 percent of the cost of developing the plan.

Private consulting foresters, wildlife biologists and other resource professionals will work with landowners to establish the land management practices recommended in Forest Stewardship Plans.

For more information about SIP, call the Maine Forest Service at 1-800-367-0223.

Jackson-Silver Post #68
Members of the Jackson-Silver Post #68 American Legion, Locke Mills met at their meeting hall along with the Ladies Auxiliary for Annual Joint Installation ceremonies of their respective officers for the coming year, Thursday, May 7.

The following new officers for the Ladies Auxiliary that were installed were as follows: president, Kathleen McAllister; vice president, Kathy Bartlett; historian, Noreen Russo; chaplain, Sylvia Dunham; treasurer, Vera Cross; secretary, Olive Risko. Installing officers were Mona Cole and Jeri Greenwell of the Mundi Allen Post in Bethel. Special recognition was given to 15 past presidents of the Auxiliary.

The following new officers of Post #68 were as follows: commander, Raymond Tripp, Jr.; first vice commander, Delwin Wilson; second vice commander, Brian Strickland; adjutant, Andrew Bartlett; finance officer, Richard Cross; chaplain, Rodney Hanscom; historian, Edie Strickland; service officer, Nicholas Clements; sgt. at arms, James Cobb, Jr.

Installation officers for the above officers were: installing officer, Vito DeFilipp, past national vice commander, '85 and '86; chaplain, Joe Vitalario. Both were members of the Rumford Post.

Following the above installations a very brief business meeting of the Post was held. Assignments for grave decorations were reviewed and confirmed. A brief report on the investigation of the broken pavement in the parking lot was given. It was voted to buy 15 T-shirts for the Post ball team with the number of the Post screen printed on them.

The next meeting will be May 28. The members of the Legion will be marching in Memorial Day celebrations at Locke Mills, Bryant Pond and East Bethel.

have their first experience of the U.S.A. in our town; receiving progress reports of action groups established at Community Conference II.

The meeting is open. We welcome new ideas and new participants. For further detail or comment call Gwyneth Bohr, 824-2913, or Nancy Davis, 824-2355.

GED CLINIC

A GED Clinic will be held in Andover on Tuesday, May 19, from 5:30-8:30 at the Andover Elementary School. Information about the GED Test will be available from Merrill Bittner of the S.A.D. #44 Adult and Community Education staff.

The clinic is cosponsored by S.A.D. #44 Adult and Community Education and Project Rural Workplace, which operates worksites classes at Andover Wood Products. The clinic is open to all adults without a high school diploma. Although walk-ins are welcome, it would be appreciated if those planning to attend call the Adult Education office, 824-2780, or the Andover School, 392-4381, to give the staff an idea of attendance.

CROSS-COUNTRY QUILTERS

Carole Crandall hosted the May 5 meeting of the quilt club in her home with seven members present. Nancy Donovan was a guest. Members who had made baby quilts brought them to show and then they were given to the Bethel Area Health Center to comfort sick children. The remainder of the meeting was spent in looking at a collection of some of the how-to-books now available to quilters.

The May 19 meeting will be held at the library at the regular time. The club will be assisting Mabel Kennett in putting a quilt on the frame and basting it for her. June 2 will be the last meeting for the season. Bring a bag lunch, quilted "Challenge" piece, and meet at 10 a.m. at Mabel Kennett's home at Swan's Corner.

Raffle tickets for the 1992 State Quilt may be purchased until May 19 from Ruth Feeney, call 824-2425. The winning ticket will be drawn at the Maine Quilts '92 show at the Lewiston High School, July 24 through 26.

The quilt being raffled for the benefit of the Bethel Library may be seen at the library and tickets purchased there. The winning ticket will be drawn on Mollyockett Day in July.

Cummings - Nigra

Mel Cummings of Madison and Newry is pleased to announce the engagement of her daughter Sarah Rae to MM3 Dominic John Nigra. Dominic is the son of Donald J. Nigra of Collingsville, Ill. and Krystina Koperci of Chicago, Ill. Sarah is also the daughter of the late Col. Larry S. Cummings.

Miss Cummings is a 1992 graduate of Madison Memorial Area High School and will pursue her nursing career in Virginia. Her fiance is a graduate of Collingsville High School and is currently serving in the U.S. Navy, stationed in Norfolk, Va.

A 1992 summer wedding is planned in Newry.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all members of Franklin Grange #124 for honoring me with the 1992 Community Citizen Award, and a special thanks to Richard Felt and Viva Whitman for their efforts on my behalf. As there are so many deserving citizens in our town I feel especially honored to be chosen. Thanks everyone.

Obituaries

MARGARET SNYDER

Margaret Snyder, 86, died Sunday at the Norway Convalescent Center. She was born at Linkoping, Sweden, Oct. 19, 1905, the daughter of Gustav and Elsa Carling, and came to the United States by ship with her parents when she was five years old. She was educated in Concord, N.H. and Kensington, Conn., and had been a housewife. She also operated an antique shop in North Waterford in the 1960s. Mrs. Snyder had lived in the Bethel area for many years. She married Thomas W. Snyder June 15, 1925; he died Aug. 11, 1963.

Mrs. Snyder is survived by three daughters, Louise Ferguson of Killingsworth, Conn., Vivian Dower of Portland, Conn., and Roberta Scribner of Harrison; three sons, Randall Snyder of Portland, Conn., Thomas Snyder of West Franklin, N.H., and Ronald Snyder of West Bethel; a brother, Harry Carling of Kensington, Conn.; 19 grandchildren and 35 great-grandchildren. She was predeceased by a great-grandson, Justin Snyder.

Memorial services will be held Saturday, May 16, at 3 p.m. at Raymond Funeral Home, 119 Main St., Norway. Interment will be at Woodlawn Cemetery, North Waterford. No visiting hours. Donations in Mrs. Snyder's memory may be sent to American Heart Association, P.O. Box 346, Augusta, Me., 04330.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Samuel F. McGoy extends grateful thanks to all relatives, friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy, cards, flowers, and other contributions; to Rev. Brendan Bass for his help and kindness; to the doctors and nurses at Stephens Memorial Hospital for their wonderful care; to Bethel Rescue; to American Legion Mundt-Alen Post 81 of Bethel, and to all others who have helped us during this time of bereavement.

WINIFRED SCOTT

Graveside services will be held for Winifred Scott Saturday, May 16, at 10 a.m. at Sunday River Cemetery, Newry.

CORRECTION

Donations in memory of Carroll "Tom" Yates may be made to MedCare Paramedic Ambulance Service, 75 Main Street, Mexico, Maine.

HIGHWAY DEATHS TOTAL 40

Highway fatalities claimed 40 lives through the first three months of 1992.

According to a report issued by the Bureau of Highway Safety (BOHS), January was uncharacteristically high, with 24 deaths (11 more than 1991), February accounted for nine, and March seven. Broken down by classification, seven of the victims were pedestrians, one a motorcyclist and 32 motor vehicle occupants. Alcohol was involved in 32.5 percent of the fatalities.

The report further stated that 78 percent of the people who died in passenger vehicles were not using safety belts. One of the victims who died was in a seating position where an air bag deployed, but was not using a lap and shoulder belt. "Studies show that air bags alone can reduce the chance of fatality in crashes by only 20 to 40 percent, but an air bag with a lap and shoulder belt can reduce the chance of fatality by up to 55 percent," said Richard E. Perkins Director, BOHS. "Clearly, the best way to protect yourself is to have an air bag and use your safety belt."

Conrad - Bailey

Judy Lea Bailey and Garth Theodore Conrad were married Sept. 28, 1991 at the Calvary Congregational Church in a ceremony performed by the bride's brother, the Rev. Randall Rickards.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bailey of Andover. The groom is the son of Ted Conrad of East Andover, and Winona Stecher of Bethel.

The bride, escorted by her father wore a gown of white tissue taffeta, enhanced with appliques of lace, Shiffle embroidery and beading at the high neckline, the fitted bodice, long sleeves and full skirt, which extended into a cathedral train. A pearl headpiece held her two tiered veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of carnations.

Patricia Holmes was matron of honor for her sister and bridesmaids were Bobbi Ridge, Kathy Conrad, Tami Daigneault and Debbie Picard. Erica Rickards was the flower girl.

Bill McDougall served as best man and ushers were Grant Conrad and Glen Conrad, both brothers of the groom, Eric Wardwell and John Holmes. Daniel Holmes and Blake Conrad nephews of the bridal couple, were ring bearers.

After the ceremony, the reception was held at the Andover Town Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad are residing on Farmers Hill Road in East Andover after a Caribbean cruise.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Telstar Regional High School in Bethel. She also attended St. Mary's School of Radiology, where she received her certificate in Radiology. Both are employed at Andover Wood Products.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the Bethel Ambulance crew for its quick response on May 7th. Special thanks to Wilbur, Mike & Arlene for their great care and support during the birth of our little girl, Brianna Lee.

Make your break for western Maine

Maine is known as "The Great Escape."

Certainly President Bush uses it frequently as his home away from home.

But before rushing off to the Maine woods, a visitor should ask himself or herself what they're escaping from--and what they'd like to escape to.

The Bethel area of western Maine offers a change of pace as well as a change of view. There are no freeways, no shopping malls, no tall buildings, not even any stoplights.

What there is is a scattering of small towns, nestled in the eastern foothills of the White Mountains, washed by the Androscoggin River, and insulated by abundant forests.

The Bethel area was settled by Colonial-era farmers. It was developed by 19th century lumber and railroad interests. In the 20th century, it has attracted a cosmopolitan mix of city folk who have decided there's more to life than smog and congestion. Some have come to settle, others just to visit.

The great outdoors

Gaining popularity first as a summer resort in the early decades of this century, nowadays the area is as popular for winter recreation as for summer. The three local ski areas: Mt. Abram Ski Slopes, in Locke Mills, Sunday River Ski Resort, in Newry, and Shawnee Peak at nearby Bridgton offer as good and varied skiing as will be found anywhere in New England.

In addition to downhill skiing, there are a number of well-equipped ski touring centers in the area to aid and equip cross-country skiers.

When the snow melts and the ponds unfreeze, the Bethel area comes alive with greenery and birdsongs. Fishing, sailing, canoeing, hiking and biking replace skiing. And farmers begin working long days on their crops.

The heart of this fascinating region is the town of Bethel, which sits astride the Androscoggin River, 75 miles from Portland and 180 miles from Boston. The area also includes the towns of Andover, Upton, Hanover, Gilford, Newry, Greenwood, Woodstock and West Paris, plus nearby Waterford, Lovell, Fryeburg, Bridgton, Norway, South Paris, Oxford, Rumford; and Shelburne and Gorham, 30 minutes away, across the border in New Hampshire.

*No freeways,

The economy is a diverse mixture of educational institutions, wood-based industries, tourism and recreation, arts and crafts, agriculture and small-farm enterprises, as well as a significant community of retirement and vacation homes. Here, in just a few small communities, you will find such diverse businesses as a recording studio, an elderhostel, wilderness schools, motivational seminars, prep schools, potteries, working farms and dairies, nearly a dozen woodworking mills, skiways and historic inns.

Was part of Massachusetts

The town of Bethel, which now numbers about 2,500 people, was founded in 1774 as Sudbury Canada. It was not a part of Canada. Rather, the name came about because the land was given to settlers from Sudbury, Mass., who had fought in the campaign to conquer Canada in 1690, during the French and Indian Wars. Settlement of the town went slowly during the Colonial and Revolutionary War eras, and as late as 1781 there was an Indian raid (one of the last in New England, that resulted in three of the townspeople being taken captive.

The town was incorporated in 1796 and given the name Bethel--taken from the Book of Genesis and meaning "House of God."

Farming was the principal occupation of the earliest inhabitants. But with the arrival of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railway, in 1851, connecting Bethel to Portland and later Montreal, the wood products industry became a major factor in Tee off without the waiting ...

"Tee times still available."

Now there's something you almost never hear ... except in Maine's western mountains.

In and around Bethel there are nearly a dozen golf courses open to the public. A variety of terrain and challenges await both seasoned golfers and beginners.

And most with no waiting. Look at it this way--the 3-1/2-hour drive from Boston to Bethel is less time than many golfers waste waiting on the first tee.

It may be an understatement to say that golf is enjoying a tremendous boom. More than any other sport in America, golf has shown a remarkably steady growth over the past 10 years.

In 1978, 14 million people played the game, today there are over 25 million golfers.

Enthusiasm for the game itself has grown phenomenally; the Baby Boomers who played tennis in the 70s and 80s are now turning to golf ... and golf's a game for a lifetime.

The sport considers all levels of ability and offers recreation to a generation which has its eye on the environment.

Talk around Maine clubhouses has focused on the growing popularity of the game and the need for new and expanded courses.

The problem, especially in the Northeast, is there aren't enough public courses to accommodate all the new players. From 1978 through 1988 only 9,000 new public courses opened up nationwide, an increase from 12,700 to 13,600.

Fortunately, Maine continues an active role developing new golf layouts. In fact, Maine now has more golf courses per capita than most golf destinations in Florida.

Along the coast and in the western mountains and lakes region, new courses have sprouted up offering relaxed and uncrowded play.

In fact, Maine golfers sometimes have a hard time believing the horror stories from away.

There are reports that players its guests since 1916.

A sporty nine-hole course for decades, The Bethel Inn & Country Club is now an 18-hole, 6,663 yard championship layout.

Renowned golf course architect, Geoffrey Cornish designed 11 new holes and blended them with seven of the original, creating one gem of a golf course. (Historically, an interesting footnote on the original golf holes is that patients of the Inn founder, Dr. John G. Gehr-hole is a real challenge. It requires a firm mind-set to block out that dam hazard that once powered mills in Bethel.

The perfect combination

It is that combination of natural beauty and challenge that makes the game so attractive. A golfer has 14 clubs in his bag, all of them different; 18 holes to play, all of them different; and all around him are sand, trees, grass, water and wind.

From the White Mountain back-technology in equipment design, everyone is able to play on a competition or social level.

A handicap compensates for those extra "learning strokes" on the scorecard. And for those golfers who fall a little short, never fear, graphite club shafts, metal woods and a good old-fashioned lesson can help get the ball in the hole a whole lot sooner.

The better golf courses offer multiple tee positions to further create a more equitable challenge.

The Bethel Inn, for instance, offers four tee positions, considering golfers of all ability levels.

It's no secret that golf can be difficult at times, but the rewards are well worth the effort. Once you've made solid contact with a ball and watched it soar into the distance, the hook is set deeply in your jaw.

You will never be satisfied until you can do it again and again. It's that simple and that complex.

For golfers, the Bethel region is an ideal location for the best the game offers. The abundance of courses and ideal summer weather make the western mountains of Maine a virtual golf paradise.

Within just a short ride from Bethel there are a number of public courses ready to welcome the visiting golfer.

The chart below gives the basics. The folks at the Bethel Inn pro shop would be happy to tell you more.

Maine now has more golf courses per capita than most golf destinations in Florida.

living in Boston show up at 3 and 4 a.m. for tee times. One story has it that in Farmingdale, N.H., golfers form lines at midnight on weekends so they can be first on the Bethpage Course.

In western Maine, even on a sunny Saturday, one can get a tee time at The Bethel Inn or Norway Country Club and expect no more than a short wait.

Much of the best of Maine, and some would say the most "real" parts of Maine, cannot be seen through the windshield of the family sedan. These gems lie far from the well-traveled pavement.

A long hike will get you there, but an increasing number of visitors--along with lots of local folk--have discovered that a mountain bike might just be the best way to enjoy these off-the-beaten-path pleasures.

The new breed of mountain bikes, high-tech descendants of the fat-tire Schwinn's of childhood, are lightweight and easily maneuverable, but also rock rugged and reliable. And just the ticket for heading off into the woods, or even cruising about the village.

The Bethel area offers all the variety a mountain biker could wish for--from hair-raising mountainside descents, to slow and gentle riverside rambles.

The rich logging tradition of Western Maine has left the local wood criss-crossed with dirt roads that are ideal for mountain biking.

Equally important, our tradition of private land ownership, combined with open public access, means that nearly all these roads are free to whoever finds their way to them.

(One caution: Most owners of large woodlands keep their roads open to the public. For mountain bikers, figure that to mean: "If it ain't posted, you can pedal it." But when actual logging operations are underway, the biker, like the hiker, should avoid the busy main highways.

The river valleys and farmlands of the Bethel area offer miles and miles of relatively flat riding trails. But once the cyclist heads into the foothills, the legs are quickly reminded of that old cycling truism: "What comes down must go up."

The uphills are a welcome aerobic kick for the well-conditioned biker, but it's now possible for even those who might not be in quite such good shape to stop to enjoy a picnic (the bare rock summit of nearby Locke Mountain offers a spectacular 360-degree mountain view), or you can start your plunge downhill, on routes that include ski trails, old logging and work roads, as well as some exceptionally challenging single-track riding.

The area is also crossed by miles of snowmobile trails, most with well maintained bridges over the larger streams and rivers they cross.

And one big plus of these off-road byways--especially when you travel them on a quiet mountain bike--is the chance to come upon a fox, a bear, deer, moose and countless species of bird that are rarely found along shape to enjoy the thrill of biking the steps--because at nearby Sunday River Skiway, the downhill excitement doesn't end when the snow melts.

Sunday River now operates in the summer as the East's first and largest lift-serviced trail network for mountain bikers.

More than 30 miles of diverse trails are now available at the park.

The bike park trails also connect with logging and woods roads in Maine State Conservancy Lands in nearby Riley Township--so the summer fun is endless.

Last year's Trek attracted 742 cyclists, who raised $280,000 for the American Lung Association of Maine.

CANOEISTS IN WESTERN MAINE--can challenge the raging rapids ...

Stroke those city stresses away

By JANE CHANDLER AND KEVIN SLATER

The Bethel area is blessed with gorgeous lakes and rivers, offering all types of canoeing in spring, summer, and fall.

One of the best rivers for peaceful canoeing in all three seasons, with no portaging, is the Ellis River, in Andover. The river meanders a distance of 13 easily canoeable miles from a covered bridge, in East Andover, to Rumford Point, where the river joins the Androscoggin.

One of the reasons the Ellis is so nice is that it offers scenic views at every bend--of Andover Whitecap and other mountains in the area. Not many people use the river, so ducks, cliff swallows and kingfishers feel free to show themselves, and river otters can often be seen sliding down the bank to the water. Fishing is great near the many banks and bends of the river. Convenient sand bars offer nice picnic and swimming spots during a day trip.

But caution is urged for those sensitive to poison ivy. That particular plant is partial to the wet areas near the river. Another word of caution is the current, which helps propel the canoe downstream easily, but can also pull an inexperienced swimmer under the water.

And the swift current can overturn a canoe on downed trees or stumps in the river, if one is not watching.

Androscoggin River

The Androscoggin, which runs through Bethel, offers gentle river canoeing with magnificent views of the Mahoosuc Mountains.

Thanks to the efforts of the Friends of the Androscoggin and some local land owners, there are now a number of canoe access points along the river.

From Gilead to West Bethel you'll find a quick water stretch of about 10 miles long with great mountain views.

You can put in at the public landing on the south side of the river just downstream from the Gilead Bridge. There's also a take out/put in at Newt's Landing in West Bethel, also on the south side of the river.

Across from Newt's landing is the School's Picnic Site on the north side of the river.

From Newt's Landing to the Route 2 Riverside picnic area, there is a nine mile stretch of quick water with an occasional riffle. It's a fine beginning or family stretch of river.

The highlight of the next stretch from the state picnic area to Bear River in Newry is the mild set of rapids below the confluence of the Bear River.

There is no official public takeout here, but by going up the Bear River about 100 yards, you can put in or take out by the Route 2 bridge.

In the Bethel area, canoe rental is available from Mahoosuc Outfitters (824-2073) in Newry, at

Sunday River

The Sunday River, flowing from Riley Plantation through Newry to Bethel, beginning above the covered bridge, has great white water experiences when the water is up. The Class II rapids run for about five miles of the river before calming down to swift current. Letter-S, named for its configuration in the rock ledges, has an explosive shoot at its outlet for the experienced whitewater canoe or kayaker. And even with low water levels, Letter-S is a great swimming hole and spectacular enough to be worth a visit.

White water

The Swift River, between Mexico and Rumford, has fantastic white water, with the right water levels.

The river is fed by many mountain streams and can rise very rapidly, making it canoeable. The usual starting point is at the three-holes, with the put-in on the Mexico side of the river, about three miles above Hale Bridge.

Two sections offer particular difficulty and can both be portaged, depending on ability and water conditions. Below Hale Bridge is a four-foot drop with very strong current. Without the right approach, the canoeist can expect to swim. A mandatory portage is immediately after this drop on the right. A large dam is located one-half mile downstream.

The second section requiring scouting is the section called "The Tubs." This section requires handling heavy water and maneuvering a letter-S pattern between the ledges. The river meanders down the last five miles to the Androscoggin River with plenty of current and boulders to avoid.

Another fun river to canoe, and not quite as difficult, is the Little Androscoggin River, running from Greenwood to Snow Falls. But be sure to take out before the falls. One good place to put in is by Route 219 in Greenwood, about five miles from West Paris.

The river takes about three hours to canoe the stretch to the lower Pioneer Street Bridge. One dam in the center of West Paris requires portaging on the left. The river rises quickly and drops quickly. So examination of water levels makes the difference between a fun afternoon of canoeing and dragging a canoe over the rocky bottom.

... OR FLOAT GENTLY--in the quiet beauty of a still cove.

Upper Androscoggin

The dam-controlled Androscoggin near Errol, N.H. offers reliable Class I and II white water all summer long. The most difficult section of the river is where the Route 26 bridge crosses the river in the village of Errol.

Below the bridge, the river has easier rapids interspersed with calm water for the next seven miles before the flat water created by the Ponthook Dam. The water releases below the dam, however, are not as reliable as those in Errol.

White water instruction is available from Mahoosuc Outfitters and Saco River Outfitters in Errol, N.H. Mahoosuc Outfitters also offers guided overnight trips.

Calm paddling

All of Western Maine's lakes can be canoed. Most have a public landing, but a canoe can usually be lowered over the banks pretty much wherever one wishes.

Locally, the lakes of South Pond and Round Pond, in Locke Mills, interconnect and offer a pleasing balance between a large lake and smaller sections between islands.

North Pond and Twitchell Pond, both in Greenwood, Songo Pond in Albany, and Howard Pond in Hanover, offer peaceful canoeing with great views of nature.

The newly created Umbagog Lake Wildlife Refuge offers the best opportunity to see moose, eagle, osprey and other northwoods wildlife.

A nice family day trip is to put in on the Magalloway River on Route 16 and canoe down into Umbagog Lake and back to the public landing on Route 16 in New Hampshire via the Androscoggin River.

This loop trip is a nice mixture of stream, marsh and lake paddling with plenty of birds and wildlife.

There is about a four mile shuttle from the first put in on the Magalloway off Route 16 to the Androscoggin along Route 16.

The Saco is nearby

The Saco River, running between North Conway, N.H., and Fryeburg or Hiram, offers excellent family canoeing and swimming, with good possibilities for overnight camping. The river is filled with sandbars for picnic spots. It is very close to the highway, although Route 5 is not visible from the river. The novice canoeist can safely learn the skills of canoeing here, and canoe rental is easy. Fryeburg and North Conway have many canoe rental shops. Rentals include canoe carriers for those taking the canoe to another place to begin the outing.

The only slight disadvantage with the Saco is its popularity. It is hard to canoe any stretch without seeing another canoeist.

But back on the lakes and streams closer to Bethel, canoeists will usually find all the solitude they wish.

Mountain trails beckon all ages

The Bethel area, in the foothills of the White Mountains, offers unlimited opportunity for hikers, campers and lovers of nature to enjoy the great outdoors.

With the White Mountain National Forest to the west (See following story), the Mahoosuc Range and Grafton Notch State Park to the north, dozens of other peaks to the south and east, Bethel is literally surrounded with thousands of acres of wild and beautiful landscape.

Even visitors staying in town will not have to drive far to find fine hiking.

For example, the nearby Mt. Will foot trail offers splendid views, especially of the Androscoggin River valley looking a trail on the New Hampshire side of the mountain.

The panoramic view from the summit includes Old Speck, Sunday River Whitecap and New Hampshire's Success Pond.

For those interested in hiking through the White Mountain National Forest, a brief stop at the Ranger Station on Bridge Street (Rt. 2) in Bethel will provide you with maps and information about points of interest, and trails and campgrounds in the National Forest.

The Rangers also have available a number of informative handouts about hiking, camping, Forest Service policies, and a self-guided auto tour of the Patte Brook Demonstration Area where you can observe many of climbing about 600 feet in less than a half-mile to a knob overlooking the river, and the East Royce Trail, which starts on the right at the crest of the Notch and gains the 3,100-foot summit of East Royce Mountain in less than a mile-and-a-half.

The latter hike may take a few hours, but affords you a view of the Presidential Range to the west, the Rangeleys to the north, and the entire hills and lakes region to the south and east.

Caribou Mountain

Plan on a half-day or better to enjoy the hike around the basin on the Basin Rim Trail, or a full day to climb Caribou Mountain, by either the Caribou Trail (up Morrison Brook) past Kees Falls, Bethel is literally surrounded by thousands of acres of wild and beautiful landscape.

towards the Bethel village.

The Mt. Will (MW--see map) foot path is marked with red ribbons and begins at a chained-off entrance on the northwest side of Route 2, 1.9 miles north of the Riverside State Rest Area in Bethel.

It is a carry-in, carry-out trail limited to foot travel only. Trail maps are available in the Bethel town office.

A little further from town, the Goose Eye Mountain (GEM) trail through Riley Township provides direct access from Maine to that mountain's 3,800-foot summit.

The five mile trek to the summit begins a few miles west of Newry's Sunday River Ski Resort in Riley Township. Before the trail was completed in 1990, access to the summit was limited to the Forest Service's management practices.

Evans Notch

Evans Notch (EN) is a popular start off spot for fine trails. From Bethel, drive west about 10 miles on Rt. 2 to the village of Gilead. Turn left on Rt. 113 and head up alongside the Wild River.

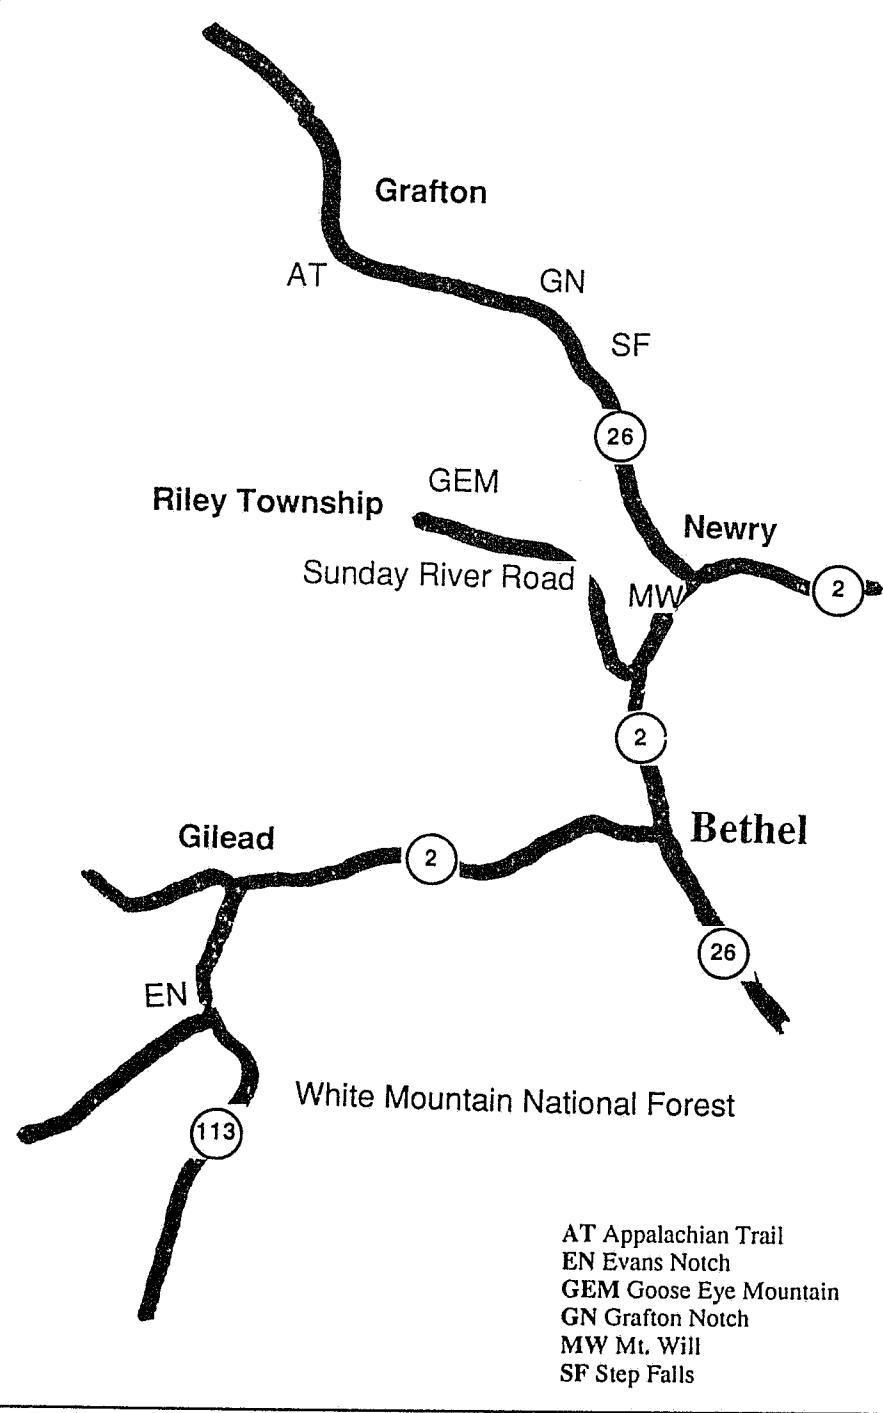

A little over three miles from Rt. 2 you'll cross Evans Brook near its confluence with Wild River. There is a parking lot on the right and the river road branches off from Rt. 113.

Stop there and take a path to the footbridge that crosses Wild River to the Highwater Trail for an easy walk upstream.

Other reasonably short hikes in Evans Notch include: The Roost Trail, beginning just back before the bridge over Evans Brook and or the Mud Brook Trail.

Nearby day hikes

The Caribou trailhead and the Mud Brook Trail are now connected by a new parking lot constructed last summer by the U.S. Forest Service. The new lot makes it possible for hikers to make an unbroken loop hike on the Caribou and Mud Brook trails.

Now you can enjoy both by going up one trail and down the other.

Caribou has another spectacular 360-degree view.

Evans Notch has four beautiful and spacious campgrounds that provide water, but no camper hookups. All are filled on a first-come first-served basis, so you may want to check with the ranger station for information on availability of sites.

There are several private campgrounds in the Bethel area, most with camper hookups.

Grafton Notch

To reach Grafton Notch (GN) State Park from Bethel, take Route 26 north. But be sure to make one stop along the way. About two and one half miles past the Maine Scenic Highway, parking lot are fairly strenuous but most rewarding.

To the south is a steep climb up 4,180-foot Old Speck, Maine's third-highest peak. The old fire tower on its summit offers a superb view.

Continuing the hike down the west ridge to Speck Pond is well worth it, but be sure to allow time to return back over the summit.

Leaving the parking lot headed north, the trail climbs past the Table Rock spur, over the West Peak of Baldpate Mountain to the 3,812-foot East Peak for another fabulous 360-degree vista.

Plan on a full day for either Old Speck or Baldpate, especially the latter, for which the round-trip approaches seven substantial miles. A well-equipped pack, including the "AMC Trail Guide," is recommended. Water should be carried on all hikes in the area.

For longer backpacking trips, the Appalachian Trail beckons north or south and includes an extensive trail system to nearby Mt. Washington and the other peaks of the Presidential Range.

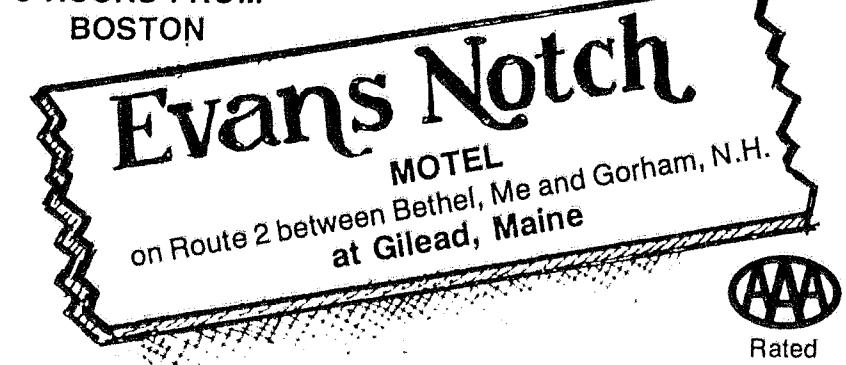

Where the rivers meet the mountains.

Nestled in the White Mountain National Forest, Evans Notch Motel and Cottages promises you a relaxed, friendly and enjoyable experience. Old Fashioned hospitality including a hearty continental breakfast. Down-to-earth, comfortable and peaceful on 14 acres in one of nature's finest scenic areas...

This year the National Forest system begins its second century of conservation. One way to enjoy all that a national forest can offer is to explore the White Mountain National Forest.

The White Mountain National Forest borders the Bethel area. In fact, the headquarters of the Evans Notch Ranger District--one of the five districts of the National Forest--is in Bethel, on Route 2. (It's the best place to get information and maps on hiking, camping, and picnicking in the National Forest.)

The White Mountain National Forest contains 750,000 acres in Maine and New Hampshire--46,000 acres are in Maine. The Evans Notch Ranger District consists of 100,000 acres.

The White Mountain National Forest is the home of Maine's first federally designated National Forest wilderness area. In 1990 Congress approved the 12,000 acre Caribou-Speckled Mountain Federal Wilderness Area.

*Preservation, recreation
and timber harvesting
all have their place in the White Mountain National Forest.*

The wilderness area designation prohibits construction of roads and buildings, commercial timber harvesting and use of motorized vehicles and equipment. These restrictions also apply to the Forest Service--caretakers of the National Forest. If the wilderness area requires any maintenance work, such as clearing trails or woodlands after a blowdown, Forest Service workers must hike in to the area and clear the debris with hand tools.

Outside of the wilderness area the remaining acres of National Forest are managed under the multiple-use concept. Preservation, recreation and timber harvesting all have their place in the National Forest.

Aside from marked hiking trails, including portions of the Appalachian Trail, the White Mountain National Forest provides back-country shelters for hikers, and campgrounds and picnic areas for hikers and day-trippers.

A Day in June

I took a stroll through the apple orchard in full bloom. I walked to the far corner and highest spot. In the background was the quiet sky and everything shining with beauty.

In the valley below shadows rose and the mountains stood out afar--alone seeming to bolster up the sky while a few fluffy clouds kissed their brows.

All around the bright, delicate buds and blossoms, that could resist either rain or wind, blended with the pale green shoots. The exuberant richness of the blossoms and the gaily humming hosts of insects gathering nectar is indescribable. I just breathed in the sunshine as they hummed "sum-mer, sum-mer."

I moved from the upper orchard to a lower one across the highway. Here the fragrance of apple blossoms mingled with the wild cherry, rich and sweet while under foot bloomed the wild strawberries.

The hill sang with color and scent and sound. Such a scene pulls at the heart strings and one remembers the flashes of beauty always.

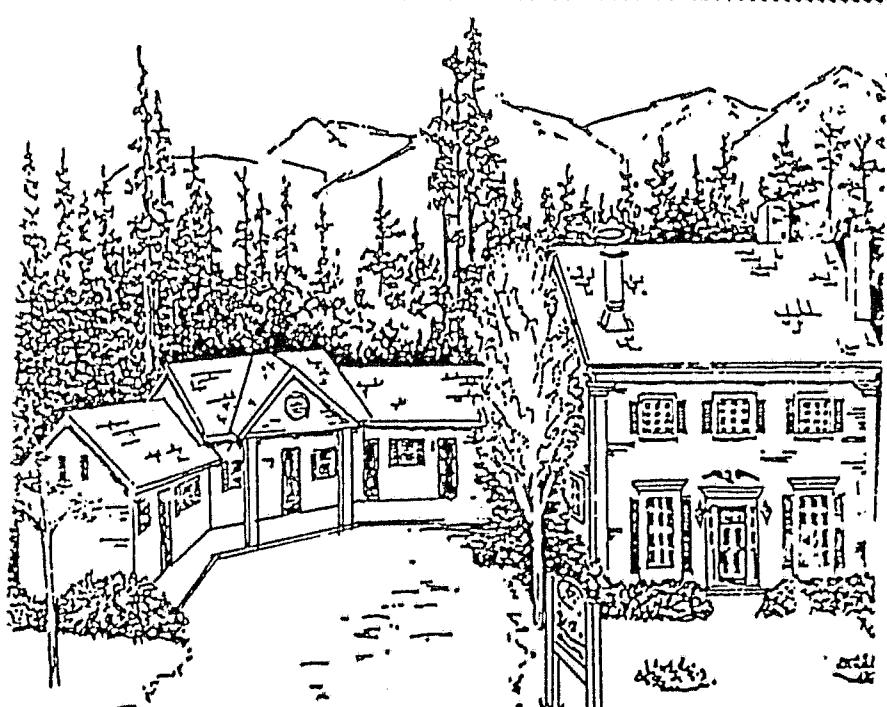

Everything that I saw delighted my senses and spoke to my imagination.

This was truly a day when waters danced and sparkled, and new leaves shone in the sun. The clouds soft and delicate explained what the poet Lowell meant when he wrote, "And what is so rare as a day in June."

From Pond Reflections, by Colista Morgan

The essays in Pond Reflections cover every season of the year, as seen in the hills and on the rivers and ponds of Greenwood. It's all here--the animals, the earth and trees, the weather, the sky changes--all presented in Mrs. Morgan's graceful and informal style.

Nestled in the heart of Maine's Western Lakes and Mountains region.

Open year round, our motel and conference center puts your group within easy access of each season's attractions. Sports such as hunting, fishing, boating and hiking span several seasons in our valley dominated by the Androscoggin River. There is truly something for everyone in Maine's beautiful mountains and lakes region, and we are certain that you will delight in the many opportunities for sightseeing and recreation that we have to offer.

Linnell Motel & RestInn Conference Center is located on the major east-west artery to Canada, which makes it the perfect pass-through stop if the Maritime Provinces is your destination. We welcome groups of all ages and offer the only handicapped-accessible suite in the Western Lakes &

Mountains. We also have 18 bedrooms which are reserved for non-smokers. (We request that you indicate the persons who desire non-smoking accommodations.) There is a complimentary continental breakfast provided for our guests each morning, and we have a 24-hour coffee service available in our lobby. There are two family-style restaurants and a small mini-mall within walking distance of our property.

We look forward to accommodating you on your travels through our beautiful part of Maine.

EVEN ON THE HOTTEST SUMMER DAYS--local lakes and streams offer a quick cool off. And the sun warmed ledges are great tanning spots.

Chill out! Mother Nature's way

Western Maine has lots of lovely lakes, but many of the local folks' favorite swimming holes are hidden pools on quiet streams.

A number of spots in Riley Township and Newry are perhaps the nicest. Both towns' spring fed rivers remain refreshingly cool all summer long.

Frenchman's Hole, on the Bull Branch of the Sunday River in Riley Township is located on the Sunday River Road. It has long been a popular spot with tourists and locals alike.

Also on the Sunday River Road

in Newry is the Letter S swimming hole and the Covered Bridge. The two areas are often visited by locals in search of good clean fun. A hike either side of these icy fresh hangouts is worthwhile for anyone seeking their own cool pool.

Also in Newry, off Route 26 on the Bear River, is the Deep Hole.

Here, there is an opportunity for the daring (and the divers) to make a big splash from the 30 foot ledge at the water's edge.

The less adventurous can swim over to the falls and recline in the cascading water for a natural massage.

The water is very deep, and the edges of the hole are rocky.

Young or inexperienced swimmers should be very careful.

Further along Route 26 in Grafton, at the foot of Grafton Notch State Park is Screw Auger Falls. A beautiful area any day of the year, there are several spots for picnicking and fine sight seeing. The area offers all a place to get wet, but no real swimming.

Not all of the local favorite swimming attractions are listed here--finding a place for a cool swim is half the fun.

And after that cool dip, stretch out on the sun-baked rocks for some fine sunbathing.

We hope you'll feel free to enjoy our local swimming spots, but if you're bashful, please bear in mind that in honor of another old, country tradition, at the more secluded spots you may find the locals taking their dips au naturel.

Most of these swimming spots are on private property. Swimmers respect the property, and landowners keep it open.

Cast your line in, your cares away

There's plenty of hungry fish in the streams and brooks, lakes and ponds of western Maine.

And even if you're not all that hungry yourself, fishing is a fine excuse to just loiter a bit in the great outdoors.

In the lakes of Woodstock and Greenwood you can catch some feisty bass, smallmouth and big-mouth both. And for trout, especially brookies and rainbows, don't overlook the many and varied streams feeding the Androscoggin.

The complete angler, equipped with artificial baits, plugs and spoons, will be rewarded for sure.

Lake Christopher, in Bryant Pond, is again giving up some good sized trout and landlocked salmon.

South Pond, in Greenwood, offers all of the above as well as a fair number of togue (the native lake trout). Deep and spring-fed, South Pond has been home to at least a few togue as big as 20 pounds.

At Indian Pond, also in Greenwood—but a little more off the beaten path—you can expect to catch brook trout, horned pout, pickerel, and splake (a combination togue and brook trout).

If you're really horned-pout hungry, you'll want to pay a visit to Songo Pond in Albany. Also, just waiting for the right worm, are a goodly number of yellow perch, sunfish, and bass.

If the state sees fit again to stock Songo with a load or two of brook trout, you'll really be in business.

While you're over in that direction, you might want to hit the Crooked River, at the outlet of Songo Pond. It runs all the way to Sebago Lake and its got some dandy brook trout.

At Hutchinson Pond, also in Albany, there's some fine fishing. Be on the look out for the big brown trout, largemouth and smallmouth bass, and the brook trout.

Also, for some fine brook trout, check out the Bear River and the Sunday River in Newry.

Of course, when you feel like exploring, the smaller streams running every which way around here are worth a toss or two of your line.

Local tackle shops and bait shops—you'll often find your worms next to the beer in a country store cooler—will be happy to fill you in on what's hot at the moment.

Open fishing seasons

Non-resident licenses are available at some local town offices and sporting goods stores. More information on Maine fishing regulations is available where licenses are sold. Here is some general information on fishing in Oxford County.

Lakes/Ponds

Season runs April 1 through Sept. 30.

Rivers/Brooks/Streams

Seasons runs April 1 through August 15 (general law); and August 16 to Sept. 30 (artificial lures only; daily limit on salmon, trout and togue: 1 fish).

Daily bag and possession limits--all waters

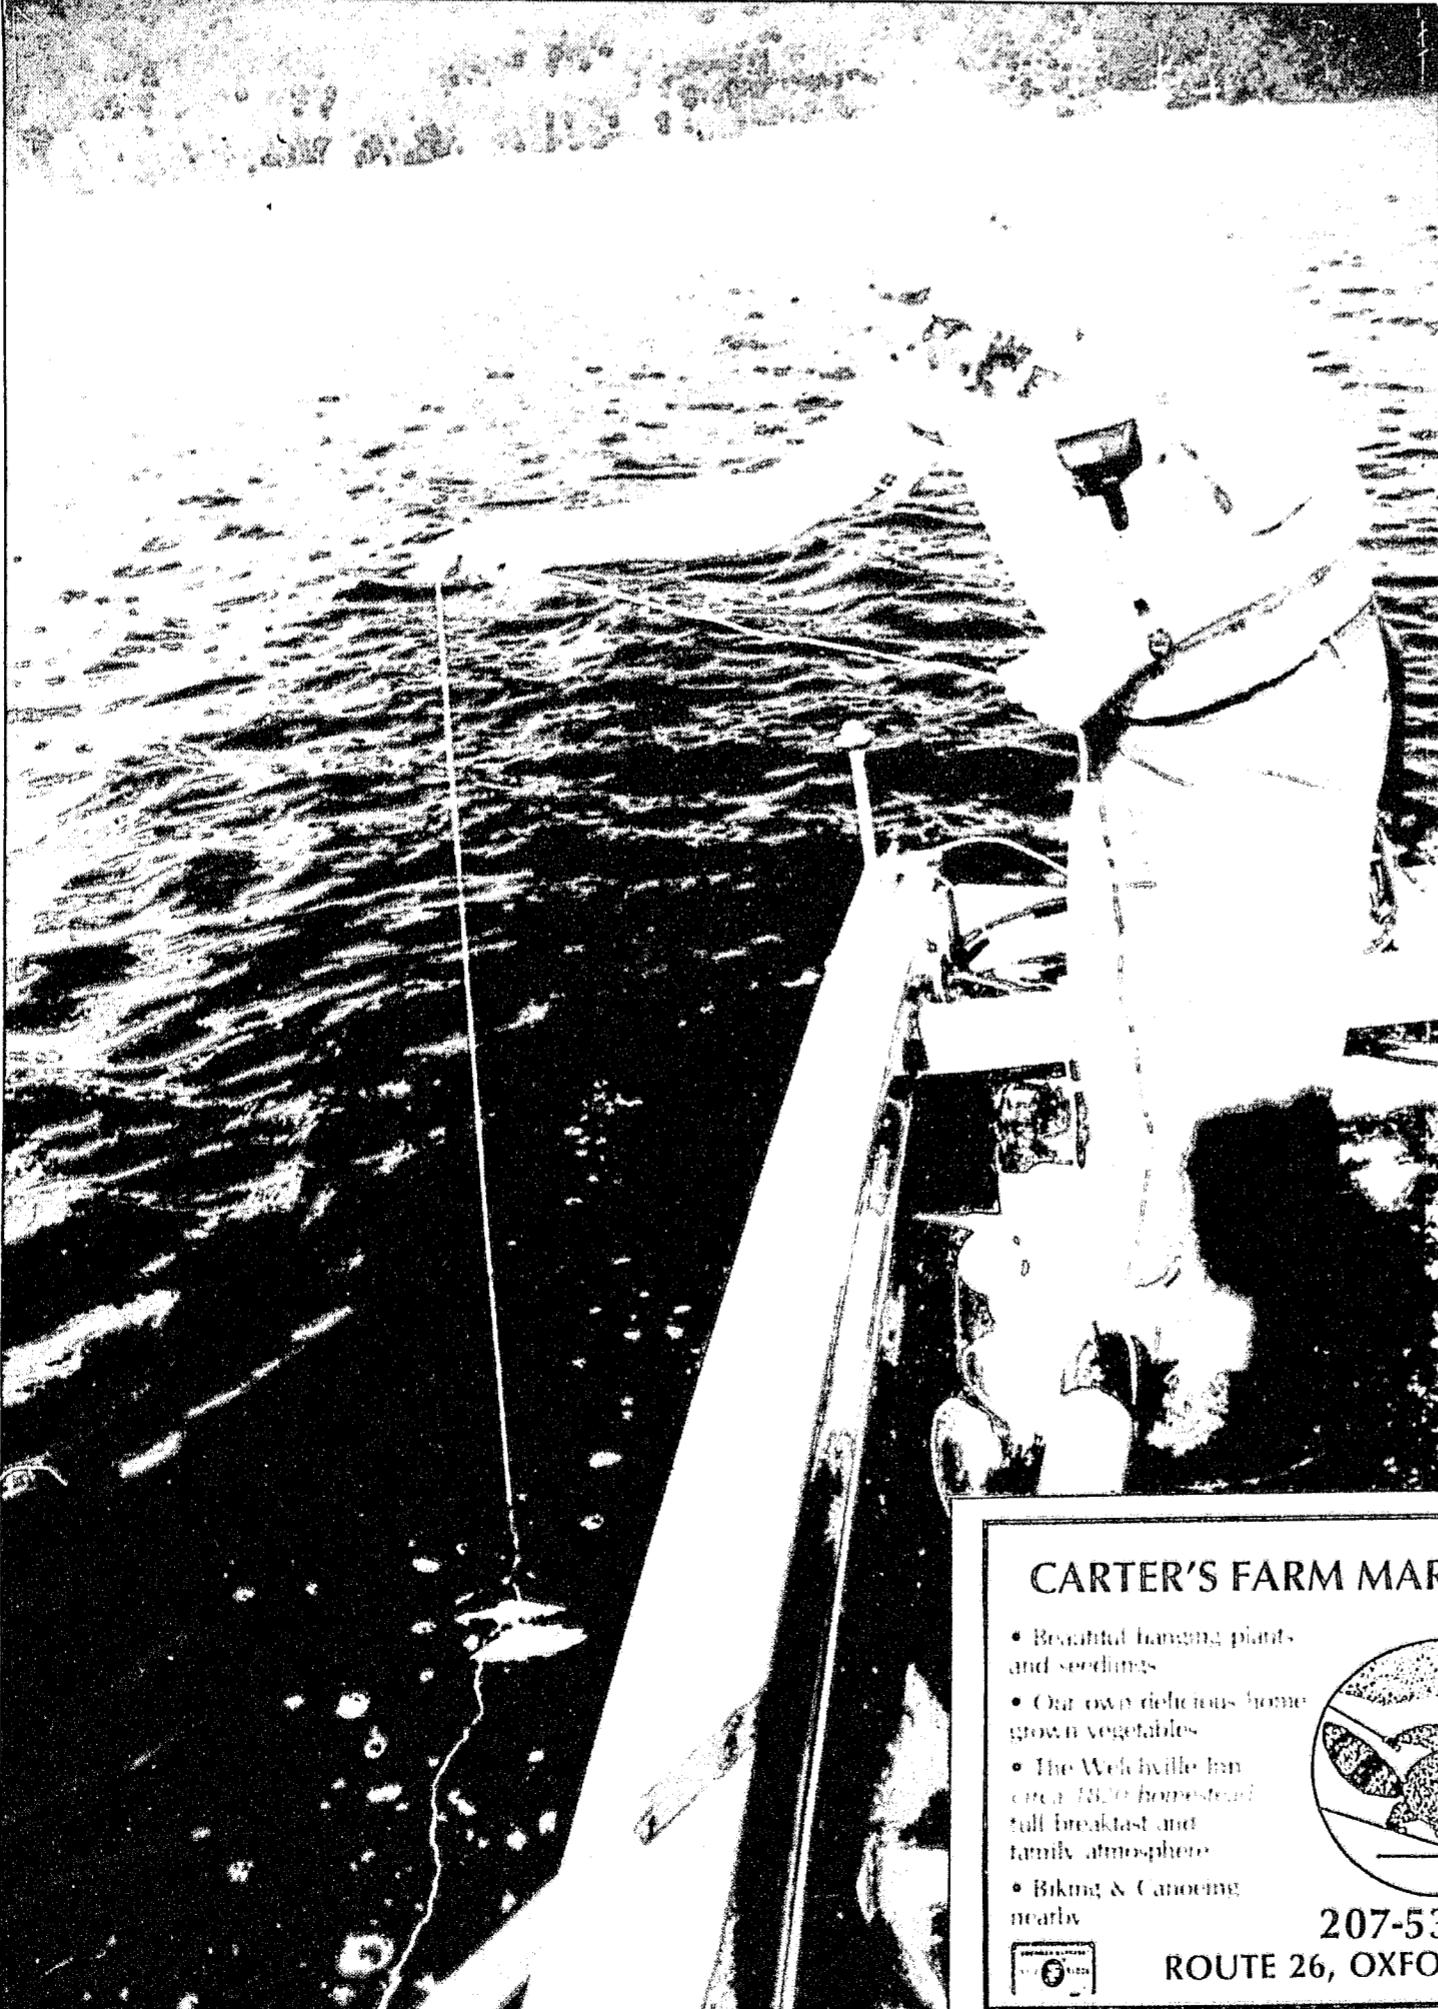

Salmon, trout, togue: 5 fish in the aggregate, not to include more than the following:

Salmon 2	Rainbow trout 2
Togue 2	Brook trout 2*
Brown trout 2	Other trout 5
Pickerel 10	Whitefish 8
Smelts 2 quarts	Other species no limit

Bass--1 fish from April 1 through June 20. June 21 through remainder of open water season: 3 fish; only 1 of which may exceed 14 inches.

*Exception: 5 brook trout limit in some counties other than Oxford, refer to open water fishing regulations guide book for more information.

Information courtesy of the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife.

CLEAN CLEAR WATER—is no accident. Local residents and visitors work hard to protect the water quality in local lakes. Left, a lakes-association volunteer monitors the clarity of Twitchell Pond. While, above, two youngsters enjoy one of the many benefits of a clean water—a nice South Pond Trophy.

Don't take all our rocks for granite

By JANE PERHAM

Visitors to the Bethel area will find that the wealth of local mineral deposits offers a unique recreational opportunity. Hidden in the hills and mountains are numerous small quarries that hold genuine "buried treasure." Mineral collecting, or "rockhounding," is an inexpensive hobby that is fun for folks of all ages.

Oxford County, in which Bethel is located, is a treasure chest holding more than one-third of the world's mineral varieties, including such beautiful gem materials as tourmaline, aquamarine and amethyst. The fine mineral specimens and exquisite gems produced by these locales have been highly prized by mineralogists and collectors since early in the 1800s.

Sporadic mining for commercially valuable minerals, and the search for gem materials, have unearthed a wealth of discoveries, which have made the area world famous. The discovery of gem tourmaline at Paris Hill, near West Paris, in 1820 led to the development of good specimens or gem materials. This waste can be a bounty to the collector, and many fine specimens are recovered from the dumps each year.

How to begin your rockhounding venture? The most important thing to remember is that each quarry is privately owned and you should obtain permission from the owner before you make your visit.

Four local quarries are owned and maintained especially for collectors by Perham's Of West Paris, and they freely distribute a map giving directions for reaching them.

At Perham's, and at Mt. Mann, in Bethel you will also be able to obtain much information about other quarries in the area.

Mt. Mann proprietor, Jim Mann, is an active collector and miner of gems and minerals in western Maine.

Mann enjoys talking to rock collectors of any age or experience. He's happy to spend a few minutes helping collectors identify their specimens. He'll also give out the latest information on mineral collecting is that it's a very safe activity. No visitors are allowed in the quarries when mining is being done and you'll have no problems if you observe simple habits of common sense.

Throwing rocks in the dump area is a definite "no" and it's not a good idea to wander too close to the edge of the quarries. When you set off on a collecting jaunt, it's a good idea to bring along a few bandaids, since some rocks have sharp edges.

Now for the all-important question: "What will I find?" Beginning collectors often have the best luck of all, and children do really well. (They're closer to the ground than adults!) There are a variety of minerals you will be likely to find at all the quarries. These include feldspar (opaque white), quartz (colorless or amber), little crystals of garnet (dark red), crystals or pieces of black tourmaline and amber or black mica, which occurs in thin sheets. After picking up these basic minerals, the list of others you may discover is endless. A good way to proceed is to pick up each piece that has a distinctively different appearance.

As a beginner, you'll need some help with making identification of your specimens. The folks at either Perham's Of West Paris or Mt. Mann will be glad to come to your aid and you'll be surprised at how quickly you'll come to recognize the different minerals.

Both shops sell local minerals and have a permanent museum display of Oxford County minerals, which will prove helpful with making identifications.

The neophyte mineral collector really does have an excellent chance of finding nice specimens. Like fishing, it's a matter of patience and being in the right place at the right time. But each year, many collectors who visit local quarries leave, well-pleased, with the specimens they uncovered.

GEM AND MINERAL SHOW

This year's annual Western Maine Gem and Mineral Festival sponsored by the Oxford County Gem and Mineral Association will be held in Bethel at Telstar High School on July 11 and 12. The show will feature the display and sale of minerals, gems and jewelry. Two rock collecting field trips to the Tamminen and Harvard mines are also scheduled. For more information call 824-2844.

Mount Mica, which is one of the region's most historical and better known locales. The world's largest crystals of beryl were found at the Bumpus Quarry in 1929, and two of these mammoth specimens are displayed at the American Museum of Natural History today.

The area's biggest discovery took place in 1972-73, when the world's largest and most bountiful pocket of gem tourmaline was unearthed at the Dunton Quarry in Newry.

In 1989, the Bennett Mine in Buckfield produced the largest morganite crystal ever found in North America.

The Rose, as it was called, was found Oct. 7, 1989 by the Holden brothers. Its original value has been estimated at $1 million.

Many of the minerals found in the area are rarities, and some are native only to Oxford County.

The quarries in the area are shallow, open pits, and unless they are being mined they are usually filled with water. The best prospecting is done in the dump areas of tailings that surround each quarry. They are composed of material discarded by miners who were too busy working for feldspar or mica to pick it over for where to collect off the beaten path.

New collectors may want to ask Mann for a few tips on how to collect from the dumps of some of the older mines in the area.

Back in West Paris, the folks at Perham's estimate that between 15,000 and 20,000 people a year come into Perham's looking for information on rockhounding.

Perham's has maps of local mines and sells the Maine Geological Survey's guide book on quarries in Oxford County and Maine.

What will you need for equipment? Unlike so many hobbies, which require various sorts of gear and equipment, the only "must" item for collecting minerals is a healthy curiosity. From that point it's entirely up to you.

You might choose to carry along a small pick or hammer, safety glasses, sturdy footwear and gloves. It's always a good idea to have a sack or container in which to carry your treasures home. More avid collectors bring along a shovel to allow them to delve into the depths of the dump rubble.

Rainy day delights:

The Bethel area has a wide variety of antique shops, craftsmen and galleries. Visitors especially enjoy rooting around for those one-of-a-kind treasures that can add a special touch to their homes.

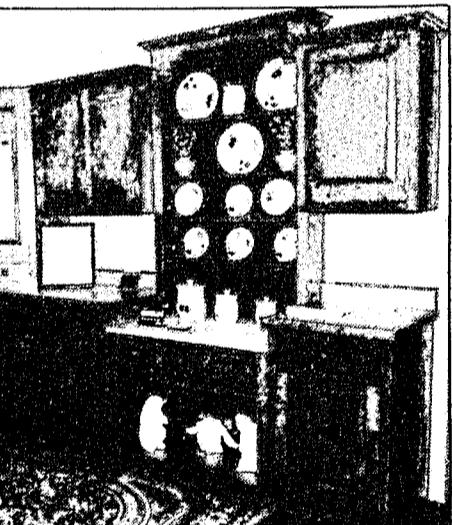

Bethel has several talented craftsmen who work with a wide variety of materials, fashioning glass, wood, clay and wool into unique jewelry, fashions, housewares and the decorative grace notes that can add so much to a home.

Main Street in Bethel.

"Maine Line Products," owned by Richard and Ellen Whitney, is next to the town office. The shop carries Maine crafts, pine furniture, gifts and Maple syrup. It is open for business all year, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Irene McGrew's "Frame 'N Art" shop is just down the street in the Kennett Realty building. She displays several works by local artists and is open 9 a.m. to Love at first sight.

CROWNPOINT CABINETRY

The Sturbridge Series is re-created in the spirit of Shaker Quality with simple inset styling, you may find it irresistible. And with good reason. For starters, Crown Point builds only custom cabinetry, just the way you want it, right down to the last detail. Second, Crown Point uses only the finest materials available, including Hardrock maple drawers.

So, if the romance has gone from your old kitchen, it's time you discovered Crown Point all-wood custom cabinetry.

4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and on Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Next is "Mt. Mann," operated by Jim Mann, specializing in fine Maine gemstone jewelry, fine gems, diverse and unique gifts. He also has watercolors, prints and select woven wall hangings. "Mt. Mann" is located in the Maine Street Place building and the hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and by appointment at 824-3030.

Next on Main Street is the "Holidae House." In the bed and breakfast's renovated barn you will find a variety of antique furniture, glass, reproductions and framed pieces. The shop is open daily 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Just a few yards further down the street is the "Pleasant River Trading Company," which features antiques, giftware, country furniture, wine, cheese, ice cream and gourmet foods. There's also a deli and seating available on the porch. The store is open daily.

Almost across the street from the trading company is the "The Wood 'N Glass Gallery," operated by Maureen Ginther. The gallery carries stained glass decorations, wood turned household items, fused glass jewelry, hand drawn and colored pins and earrings, silver and gold jewelry, pewter and silver jewelry and decorative wood inlay works. Ninety percent of the gallery's offerings are made by local craftsmen. The gallery is open daily at 9 a.m.

Our next stop is "Mainely Fibers". Run by Jan Todd and Mary Isham, the shop offers hand spun and colored yarn from local sheep and angora goat herds. You'll also find home-spun yarn and mohair knitted items, basket making supplies and specialty yarns.

The shop also caters to spinners. Spinning wheels and fibers including camel, alpaca silk and others are all on sale. The store is open year round, Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Next is "Bonnema's Pottery." Garrett and Melody Bonnema's studio and showroom are located in a renovated barn. The showroom is the only outlet for their distinctive tableware, tiles, lamps, bird baths, garden and kitchen tools and flower pots. The showroom is open seven days a week, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

At the end of Main Street, before the railroad tracks, turn left and just down the street is the home of Rose Sumner. Rose makes quilts of any size and takes custom orders. You can catch her by chance or appointment at 824-2974.

West on Route 2

Just before West Bethel village headed west on Route 2, you'll find "Groan and McGurn Tourist Trap." The store features locally designed and printed T-shirts. You'll have hundreds of designs to choose from as well as an array of other Maine souvenirs to poke through. The handiworks of craftsmen from throughout Maine are also available at the store, including jewelry, paintings, pottery and more. "Groan and McGurn" is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

A little further along Route 2, you'll find Ta-Ka-Radi. The store sells several games manufactured on site and local crafts.

Just up Route 2 across from the village church, you can't miss the display of stoves by the roadside. You will probably never again see a collection of old parlor and cook stoves that equals what Jeanette and Bunny Kimball have on display in the "Free Museum." The shop is open 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Continuing west, in the village of Shelburne, N.H. is "Crow Mountain Farm Antiques," established in a lovely old home. "Crow Mountain" features almost everything pertaining to antiques: furniture, quilts, and accessories. The shop is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

Route 26 south

Traveling along Route 2 south from Bethel in about 2 miles you'll come to "Harvey's Antiques." Harvey and Barbara Sweetser's shop deals in antique furniture and collectibles, seven days a week, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Staying on Rt. 26 in the village of Bryant Pond you'll find "Mollock Books and Collectibles," operated by Basil Seguin in what used to be the village hardware store. It is filled with an interesting variety of advertising items, general store memorabilia, small collectibles and out-of-print books. Mollock is open April through October, Thursday through Monday from 10 to 5.

Just before leaving the Bryant Pond village you will find Larry Billings' "The Crown Antique Shop." It is a room in the house that opens up to the adjoining barn. Larry specializes in advertising tins, books, glass and china and is open most afternoons from 1 to 5 all year round.

Route 2 east from Bethel
Beginning again in Bethel, if you travel about two miles east on Route 2, you'll come to the Sunday River Road on the left.

About a half mile up this road and you'll find "Mountainside Country Crafts." Nancy Cumings runs the basement store from her home. It features homemade quilts, jams, maple syrup, Maine souvenirs and an extensive variety of Maine-made crafts. The store is open every day, except Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Continuing up the Sunday River Road, just before the turn-off to Sunday River Ski Resort, is "Mary's Knittin's." Mary Morin uses her knitting machine to turn out a variety of styles and colors of hats, mittens, scarves and sweaters. You can catch Mary by chance or appointment at 824-2034.

Stay on the Sunday River Road and just past the scenic Artist's Covered Bridge is "Baker's Art Gallery." Romeo and Jo Baker feature several works by local artists.

If you return to Rt. 2 east and travel about 9 miles further to Hanover, you will see the sign for "Oxford County Antiques." This shop is operated by Jil Hamann in a 50- by 70-foot building that was a dance hall years ago. She has nicely displayed glass and china, along with baskets, tools, prints, toys, dolls and many pieces of antique furniture. The shop is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. from June to October.

One mile further, in Hanover village, is the "Lyons' Den."

Nancy and Elmer Lyons, Jr. have two floors of a large barn devoted to antiques. The first floor displays primitives, decoys, glass, china, jewelry, lamps, books, records and many tools. On the second floor is pine, oak, walnut, and cherry furniture, along with rugs, quilts, frames, paintings and prints. The "Lyons' Den" is open April through October, from 9 to 5 daily; winter months, by chance or appointment.

Just past the Hanover village you'll come to Rumford Point, where Rt. 2 intersects Rt. 232. Take this right turn, over the bridge, and then bear left and follow the signs to Abbott's Mill

Farm home of "The Woolshed." Grace McKivergan makes and sells from her studio hand weavings of rugs, clothing, placemats and other fashions. The shop is open noon to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday or by chance.

Route 5

Back in Bethel again, take Route 5 at the head of Main Street by the Bethel fire station and travel about two miles and you'll find the sign for "Lowell's Homemade Quilts." Shirley Lowell makes several quilts of many sizes and different patterns. Shirley is open by chance or appointment at 824-3490.

UNIQUE CRAFTWORKS--are a specialty of local shops.

Two of the undoubtedly highlights of the summer season are our traditional local fairs, Mollyockett Day and Sudbury Canada Days in Bethel and Olde Home Days in Andover.

Each celebration has its own flavor, and its unique delights.

Mollyockett Day

Bethel's Mollyockett Day is named in honor of a legendary Pequawket Indian who lived among the early settlers of the area and treated their illnesses. This summer the festival will be Currently the Bethel Lions Club sponsors the festival aided by the Bethel Rotary Club, the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and the Bethel Health Council.

Mollyockett herself was known as a great health practitioner.

Her most famous patient was the infant Hannibal Hamlin, of nearby Paris Hill. Arriving at the Hamlin home on a stormy night in 1809, after being refused shelter at Snow Falls, and, according to legend, cursing the place, Mollyockett found young

Mollyockett's most famous patient was the infant Hannibal Hamlin, who grew up to become Abraham Lincoln's first vice president

July 18. As usual, it will feature a parade, fireworks, foot races, a bed race, arts and crafts booths on the Common, a woodsmen's contest, a frog jumping contest, variety show, and many other events.

The day is a principal fund-raiser for area service clubs, as well as a day of fun and reunion. It was first started in 1949 as the Bethel Bazaar.

In keeping with the Mollyockett tradition of healing, the Bethel Health Council assumed sponsorship of the community event in the early 1950s.

Hannibal near death.

Her prescription of warm cow's milk reportedly saved his life, and he went on to become vice president during Abraham Lincoln's first term.

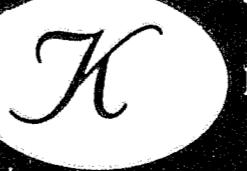

Second only to her medical reputation was Mollyockett's fame as a storyteller. Most famous are the "treasure stories"--the burying of Indian gold in West Paris beneath a trap hung in a tree, and similar tales involving White Cap Mountain in Andover, and Hemlock Island in East Bethel.

These stories set off many a treasure hunt, but to no reward.

Andover, a half-hour from Bethel, was Mollyockett's final home when she became too ill to travel.

She was cared for there by the Thomas Bragg family. She died on Aug. 2, 1816, and was buried in the Andover cemetery.

Fifty years later the women of the Andover church raised money for a marker, which was installed on Mollyockett's grave on July 4, 1867.

Children from the Andover Elementary School make an annual trip to the cemetery to pay their respects to the famous Indian.

Old Home Days

The nearby town of Andover has its own mid-summer celebration, called Olde Home Days. To be held July 31 and Aug. 1 and 2 this year, it annually draws thousands of people for a parade featuring old cars, horseback riders, and floats, as well as for the fire department's famous chicken barbecue. It will also feature a flower show, firemen's muster and other down home events.

Sudbury Canada Days

The Bethel Historical Society sponsors a weekend of events honoring the 18th century early name of the town, "Sudbury" settlers of the town. To be held Canada," because the first Aug. 8 and 9 this year, the settlers were ex-soldiers from Sudbury, Mass., who had fought in the 1690 campaign to conquer the local economy. In addition, the arrival of the railroad made it possible for summer visitors from Boston and New York to travel easily (and in some luxury) to Bethel to enjoy the town's extraordinary natural setting in the foothills of the White Mountains.

Education is the key

Bethel's reputation as a seat of high-quality education dates from 1836, when Gould Academy was established. The academy served both local and boarding students, with topnotch education, until 1968, when a regional high school--Telstar--was established for local students. Gould continues to provide an excellent college-prep education for students from all over the U.S. and abroad.

Meanwhile, Telstar has developed into a significant educational institution, serving students from Andover, Gilford, Newry, Greenwood (Locke Mills), Woodstock (Bryant Pond) and Upton, in addition to Bethel. The school is located one mile south of Bethel village, on Route 26. In addition to housing the high school, the modern school building also houses a middle school and is home to an active and varied adult education program.

Adult education of an extremely high calibre is provided each summer by the National Training Laboratories. Established in 1947, NTL (as it is called) has come to symbolize a professional approach to leadership development. Each summer, Bethel is filled with students and instructors from all over the world, getting together in semistite recently announced a major plan to renovate and modernize its facilities here.

Where to stay; where to eat

In addition to a wide selection of inns, motels and bed-and-breakfast homes, the Bethel area offers visitors the opportunity of renting, or owning, a condominium. Some are located right at the ski areas and some are located in town. All are well-constructed and painstakingly furnished for those who want the amenities of home while away on vacation.

As for dining, the Bethel area has a number of gourmet restaurants whose cuisine rivals anything to be found in big city restaurants, but without the big city prices. And, of course, there are also any number of inns and restaurants serving good, hearty New England fare. Plus enough pizza places for you to sample a different one each night for a month.

More than just a pretty face

The Bethel area is not just a summer resort or just a winter resort. Spring and fall offer their own distinct views of the mountains and the stream and rivers.

What most visitors find particularly pleasing is that the area is not dedicated to tourism. It has a real, solid economy, with tourism as just one segment of it. This means visitors don't face the traffic snarls and the hurry of other, better-known tourist areas. The Bethel area is, and feels, real—not like Disneyland east. And the people are friendly and interesting.

We hope the following articles will give you some indication of the activities available in the Bethel area, as well as a hint of the uniqueness of the population.

We think you'll enjoy a visit to the area. The advertisers in this publication will do their best to make your visit even more enjoyable. Please tell them you saw their ad in The Bethel Citizen's tourism tabloid. And when you're in the area, pick up a copy of The Citizen to be up-to-date on what's happening.

INTERNATIONAL DESTINATION--Each summer National Training Laboratories attracts hundreds of visitors from around the world to Bethel.

Education Does Make A Difference

Spring 1992

Testing: Gives a Look at the Future of Education

By FRANK BOYNTON

Throughout the year at Woodstock School we have been involved in a series of Educational Testing. The major question is why test and what do we gain from this process.

In the fall Grade 1 students received the Gates-McGinitie Reading Test. This instrument helped our staff get a close look at the ability levels of the children and gave an opportunity to see how to best serve them during the school year.

In the spring, all students in the school will receive the Gates-McGinitie. When compared with their previous scores this testing will give the staff a measure of the needs and progress of the children. Also, a vision of their expectations and needs will be made from this assessment.

In February our Grade 4 students were required by law to take the Maine Educational Assessment Test. This test was administered to all Grade 4 students in the State of Maine. This presents the ability to compare our students to a State-normed test which again can be used to determine ways to help the individual.

In late February, our students were asked to participate in the National Educational Assessment Testing at Grade 4. The results of this test will be available at the State level only. School and individual test scores will not be recorded. The major advantage to our participation in this process is to give our staff a look at national expectations. This test will perhaps be the beginning of a national evaluation instrument in the future. Our school and our children will help to establish the standards. Getting in on the ground floor of this testing will help us to progress toward the national goals.

Our last testing procedure will be held during the first week in May. Grades 2 through 5 will participate in the norming procedure for the Metropolitan Achievement Test (named GOALS). This testing will again give us a look at a national test and the opportunity to help set the national standards.

To recap, we have participated in a number of testing processes this year. Each time we test we get a look into the process and are able to make adjustments to our teaching. We learn from the process. Each time we participate, we make a move toward a better understanding of the expectations our students will face in the future.

Crescent Park School Recognized for Outstanding Efforts in Drug and Alcohol Prevention Education

By DAVID MURPHY

On Tuesday, May 5 the Crescent Park School was honored at a special Drug Free School Recognition Ceremony at the Augusta Civic Center.

Over 350 students, staff, and parents attended as the guests of the Division of Drug and Alcohol Education. Speakers included Governor John McKernan Jr. and Commissioner of Education Eve Bither.

The purpose of the ceremony was to recognize those schools in Maine making outstanding contributions to drug-free education. Maine schools were cited for their efforts and commended for innovative programs and comprehensive programs.

A 24-member panel, consisting of a cross-section of school administrators, teachers, parents, school and community team members, law enforcement officers and representatives of state government selected the schools to be recognized. Recognition was based on detailed applications and extensive state visits. State-wide, two excellence awards were given for innovative programs and two excellence awards were given for comprehensive programs. The Crescent Park School received an excellence award in each category, the first time in the history of the award program that this has occurred.

The innovative programs respond to the needs of people as they learn about or deal with alcohol and drug issues. They are considered representative of the creativity and commitment of school and community

The Best of Both Worlds: 'Whole Language'

By WENDY FORD

When I went to school (not quite 100 years ago), life in the classroom was very different from the classrooms of today. Classroom dress meant just that: girls always wore dresses, never slacks or jeans. Desks were in rows, students often were assigned seats in alphabetical order. It was expected that the student would keep up with the delivery of the curriculum, or would be kept back. In general, school was not a fun place to be. Fortunately, time does not stand still. And teachers of today have learned that there are better ways for students to learn. Unfortunately, sometimes educational jargon gets in the way of understanding just what today's classroom is, or can be.

"Whole Language" is the present approach to reading in many classrooms. It does not mean we discard all the good teaching methodology of the past and begin again. Rather we look at the way in which children acquire language, beginning with their first spoken words at home. Parents eagerly accept "babba" for "bottle," "mum-mum" for

Odyssey of the Mind Finalists Win Big at Both Regional and State Meets

By BRUCE A. BELL

Telstar Middle School students competed in the Western Maine Regional Odyssey of the Mind Competition held at Telstar on March 14, 1992. Both Middle School teams won first place. The winning teams went to Bangor to compete in the State competition on March 28, 1992.

The members of the Alice In Omerland team are: Teri Chabourne, Becky Chandler, Jarrod Crockett, Andy Dennis, Lydia Grover, and Martha Grover.

The members of the Omument team are: Anneliese Bass, Katie Chapman, Bonnie Crocker, Ben Fogg, M.J. Learned, and Marcy LaVallee.

The Omument Team received an outstanding O.M. Award for demonstrating exemplary qualities in the spirit and philosophy of Odyssey of the Mind.

She plans to study either environmental science at Johnson State College or combined science at Castleton State College in Vermont.

Adult Education in SAD #44: A Dialogue

By CATHY NEWELL

What is the mission of the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program?

Adult education in SAD #44 provides a continuum of learning opportunities from the beginning adult reader through the college student. The focus is on the needs of the individual student by supporting instruction with guidance and support services. The program fosters sharing of skills and talents by offering a wide variety of programs accessible to adult learners.

What are the national trends impacting adult education?

Adult Education is in a growth phase in the state and nation. The Works on Results

At recent meetings, the SAD #44 Strategic Planning Committee has been compiling the information returned to them from the district-wide survey of educational issues. The Committee would like to share these results with the public. The results are as follows:

Issue #1--How SAD #44 can attract and support quality employees and volunteers.

Telstar Middle School M.E.A. Test Scores Continue to Improve

By BRUCE A. BELL

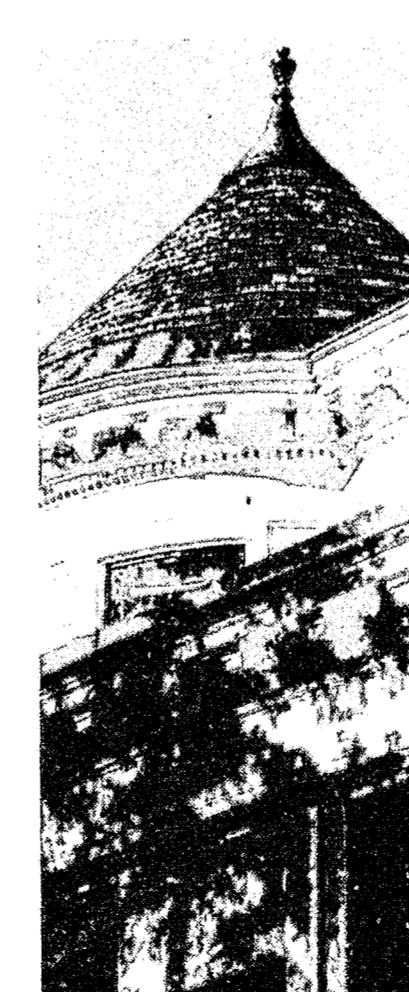

The Maine Educational Assessment Test was administered to Telstar Middle School students in November of 1991. A review of these results shows that SAD #44 eighth-graders scored at or above the state average on all areas of their test. Of the 83 students tested 15 percent scored above the ninetieth percentile in math while 13 percent scored above the ninetieth percentile in writing and reading.

The specific subject area scores are as follows:

Subject	State	Telstar
Reading	270	295
Writing	260	285
Mathematics	305	320
Science	280	310
Soc. Studies	265	285
Humanities	285	290

Middle School students and staff have a right to take pride in their accomplishment. The staff's commitment to the middle level concept is producing measurable results. These efforts coupled with the extension of the already existing reading and writing process model into the middle school, in no small measure, accounts for much of this success.

Of particular interest is that fact that 61 percent of the students showed improvement over their fourth-grade performance. SAD #44 students continue to show steady improvement in performance as a result of efforts made in classrooms throughout the District in Grades K through 8. Excellent test scores are the result of a team effort.

Early Choices 'Granted'

By SALLY HANNON

During the early days of June, many educators are concerned with winding down for another school year, but last year, as Middle School Counselor, I was planning for the next year. An application for a grant had been shared with the Adult Education Coordinator.

The guidelines for applying for the grant from the Women's Fund of Maine sounded like many of those connected with the "self" groups that Mrs. Hannon was running. There were additional qualifications concerning participants. Selection was based on the needs of the student population during adolescence. The lack of additional funds within the present budget guidelines made this a great time for the counselor to take a "risk" at writing her first grant.

On the last day of school in June, 1991 while everyone else was closing their rank books, I was scurrying around getting the first draft in the mail.

In the middle of the summer, the good news came that Telstar Middle School's proposal was one of the final applications to be considered. The seven-page, exact proposal for the 91-92 school year/summer grant was due the first day of school.

Since the decision for grant recipients was not to happen until December, we put our "self" groups in place with plans to run them with or without funds. An early decision in October found Telstar Middle School Guidance Department the proud recipient of the major share of the grant requested.

The grant funds are geared to give students, especially girls, opportunities that they might not naturally have. Experiences in decision-making of all kinds, participation in weekly and/or bi-weekly activities with an emphasis on the students deciding where they would like to go and with whom they would like to work.

The groups have been very active at the West Bethel Children's Center. Ten girls travel to the Center every other week during their study hall and mid-day time to interact with the children. They have gone caroling, made cookies, worked on crafts and done career-related activities. The group has had the children come to the Middle School to work on the gymnastic equipment, and plans to become involved in planning a picnic for the Center.

One group has been going on a regular basis to Mrs. Coolidge's second-grade class. There has been some real bonding and learning experiences for everyone involved.

Another group initiated the AIDS awareness assembly and wrote the letter to Middle School parents. The experience of working with a principal and other adults proved rewarding for the group. One of the groups collected and washed clothing that they sent to missionaries in Kenya. Supplies, some transportation, and workshop costs for these groups are supplemented by the grant.

The second phase of the grant is to take place during the summer. The girls will be taking field trips, assisting in planning recreation options and volunteering in community activities.

The groups will meet after the school year is over, but they are the ones who will make final decisions

Student Council: Integral Part of CPS

By DAVID MURPHY

A group of eight outstanding students in grades 3, 4, and 5 have played an integral part of school life at the Crescent Park School. The CPS Student Council, under the direction of second-grade teacher Ellen Greek, has planned many activities this year to promote school spirit.

This is the second year that CPS has had a student council in place. This year, the election process began early in the fall when students in grades 3, 4, and 5 took out nomination papers. After obtaining the needed signatures, ballots were dis-

Telstar National Honor Society: More than Meets the Eye

By AMY HANNON
PRESIDENT TRHS/NHS

The movers and the shakers--these are the types of people you'll find on Telstar's NHS. Unlike other extraordinary, large, inactive societies, our NHS rarely experiences a dull moment when working in school or with the community. Led by our guidance counselor, Mr. Hart, we have grown into an extremely positive group with a unique personal touch.

Our success undoubtedly comes from the clockwork of our beneficial activities. Throughout the year we sponsor a series of ice cream sundae sales for the students and staff. These sales have become one of our trademarks at Telstar. Also, NHS has created a "Student of the Month" program at school. Here, each month, a student from each grade is nominated and recognized by his or her teacher for great performance in the classroom. This system provides well-deserved recognition and incentive for Telstar students.

Special Services: A Year in Review

By ANN HOLT

DIRECTOR OF SPECIAL SERVICES

Special Education programs in SAD #44 currently serve approximately 200 students with 28 staff members and 6 regular contracted service providers. Many identified needs are addressed through this comprehensive system of service delivery such as hearing impairments, autism, learning disabilities, multi-handicaps, and behavioral issues. Emphasis during the past four years has also been to integrate the efforts of both regular and special education to meet the educational needs of these students. Regular staff members have attended classes in methods for teaching the exceptional child within their class settings. Special education staff members have worked within the regular classes to provide direct services. In addition, special education staff have initiated the use of technology for their students such as a "speaking" computer. The continued plan for promoting parental involvement in their children's program is a priority. Parents take an active and appreciated role in the decisions regarding programs, technology use, and post-secondary planning.

The next school year again will bring revisions to the existing special education state regulations. In addition to the implementation of programs, special education staff are required to maintain plans and notification that exceeds that of regular programs. Each identified child has a meeting scheduled at least annually to review their individual plans. Previous years there have been a total of 350 of such meetings. Again, this is in addition to daily program planning. The special and regular education staff are to be commended for their efforts on behalf of handicapped children in SAD #44.

Crescent Park School Annual Report—1992

By DAVID MURPHY

As principal of Crescent Park School, it is my pleasure to issue the following report for the 1991-92 school year.

This past year has been an exciting year of challenges and accomplishments for the Crescent Park School. I am fortunate to have the opportunity to work with such a dedicated and professional group of individuals. Their efforts, combined with the formation of an energetic and enthusiastic Parent Teacher Association, have enabled us to effectively transition two schools into one without missing a step in our effort to provide our students with a quality education. With the closing of Ethel Bisbee last year and the consolidation of the two schools into one on the present CPS site, many changes were obvious to everyone on the first day of school. Not only were two staffs merging as one, with the elimination of one administrator, but four additional double portable classrooms also appeared on the scene. Student population swelled from 180 to 330 and space became a major issue throughout the CPS complex. Twenty buses now made daily runs to CPS and any time a special event was scheduled, the whole school needed to be bused to Telstar High School, Gould Academy, or the Bethel Inn Conference Center. Despite the potential complexity of the situation, the 1991-92 school year has been a banner one for the students and staff here at the Crescent Park School. Instead of fearing the worst, everyone anticipated the best and we were not disappointed. Special events such as Grandparents' Day, Open House and our Volunteer Recognition Day continued to recognize the importance of the community in our school. The Student Council enjoyed its second year of existence by expanding its involvement in sponsoring school spirit events throughout the year. In addition, the Council organized and operated a very successful school store throughout the year.

An already strong staff was bolstered by the addition of Ellen Greeke who transferred into a second-grade position from the Woodstock School and the addition of a new third-grade teacher Kirsten Mattson. Kathie McCluskey rejoined the CPS staff as our Chapter One teacher after a brief absence and Jill Lewis came on board as a new instructional aide in grade 5. We also welcomed Rhonda Baker as a new Chapter One aide and Sherry Sharron who filled in for Mrs. McCluskey during her absence. Joan Casey joined the staff as our Special Education Consulting Teacher.

A special pilot program saw Elizabeth O'Meara and Tammy Mills combine their efforts and talents in developing a multi-aged classroom approach for their 40-plus students this year. Their efforts have been applauded by the parents of the children involved. Unfortunately for CPS, Mrs. Mills and her family will be leaving the area to relocate. We wish her continued success. Mrs. O'Meara will continue with the second half of the two-year pilot.

Our Chapter One Program, under the capable direction of Mrs. Natalie Timberlake, has enjoyed a successful year with their Partners Program. This program has focused on remediating first-grade students through 16-week blocks of one-on-one instruction in Reading. The results of these efforts have been fascinating. Continued specialized training in this area will soon result in CPS becoming directly involved with the Reading Recovery Program, a recognized program dedicated to providing intensive Reading remediation to primary aged children. Chapter One also sponsored a very successful Math Night which drew over 75 parents and students for an evening of Math games and activities.

The Mahoosuc Arts Council continues to be an incredible resource for the Crescent Park School. Thanks to the cooperative efforts between school and this fine organization students have had the opportunity to work with artists such as Rick Charette, David Nufield, Bert Lucarelli, Squidge Davis, Ladjamaya and Benny and Denise Riehl, to name but a few. Other visitors to CPS this year included two of Mr. Wizard's assistants, Dr. Jim Parker of Aerie East, Rick Adams, Robin Mello, Jim Stoner, McGruff the Crime Dog (Oxford Hills Sheriff's Dept.), Paul Sarvis and a group of Russian visitors who spent an afternoon at CPS as part of an exchange program with Outward Bound.

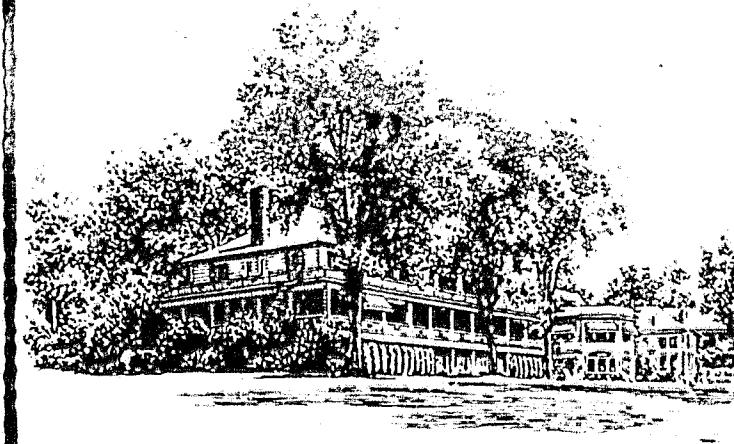

Frequent local "celebrities" at school this year included Buzz Gamble from the Maine Conservation School, Dr. and Mrs. John Mason who sponsored various events and clinics as part of Dental Health month, Neil Olson, and Dr. Stanley Howe who continues to be a tremendous resource for our fifth-grade social studies units on local history. Our volunteer program saw well over 100 other parents and friends volunteering on a regular basis.

Other events of importance this year include our second annual Student Recognition Day, an evening of Grade 5 local history skits produced in cooperation with the Bethel Historical Society, our gala holiday concert which drew over 1,000 CPS students, families and friends, the Halloween Parade through town and an outstanding Volunteer Orientation Program organized by Mrs. Salway earlier this fall.

Special academic programs also continued to flourish. Kids for Trees enjoyed another successful year.

Students in Mrs. Wheeler's fifth-grade class worked alongside Gould students in Marguerite Graham's classes to establish a "Building Bridges" Program. This program focused on developing shared writing skills. Mrs. Wheeler's students then assumed the role of mentors as they shared their talents with first and second-grade students in Mrs. Mills and Mrs. O'Meara's classes. The CPS chorus, under the capable direction of our Music teacher Mrs. Linda Stowell, performed several times during the holiday season, including a special performance at the Bethel Rotary Club's Senior Citizen Christmas Dinner. CPS children and their families also conducted a very successful food drive to replenish the Bethel Area Food Bank, currently housed at the Methodist Church. Odyssey of The Mind groups, coordinated by Mrs. Nancy Grover, continue to be a common sight at CPS. For the second year, Mr. Walter Hatch has volunteered his time to organize a very successful chess tournament at school. The school has made good use of the local community access cable television station, producing nearly a dozen videos of special events such as Grandparents' Day and the Holiday Concert, thanks to the efforts of our resident technician Eileen Opie.

After school sports, mostly organized by volunteer coaches, continue to be extremely successful. Programs are offered in basketball, soccer, softball and cross-country skiing. Over 100 CPS students participated in the cross-country program alone this year. Many, many thanks to the dozens of volunteers who do such a wonderful job for our children.

Gould Academy continues to be a wonderful resource to CPS. In addition to providing us the use of their facilities on a regular basis, they also continue to work cooperatively with us in many programs such as the Rug Rat Ski Program and the Building Bridges Program. We truly appreciate their support. Special thanks are also extended to the Bethel Inn for the use of their Conference Center for special events and to Sunday River Skiway and the Sunday River Inn for the many opportunities they make available to us.

The CPS P.T.A. has emerged as a strong organization in its initial year. Among the events it has sponsored are the Family Fun Day, movies featuring 101 Dalmatians, The Black Cauldron and Beauty and the Beast and a fund-raiser resulting in tee-shirts for all students and additional playground equipment. Perhaps most importantly, this group has initiated a great deal of work toward the upcoming CPS addition project. Monthly meetings of the P.T.A. have included distinguished speakers from throughout the State including Jane Amero, chairperson of the State Board of Education and

CPS has also received its share of credit this year. The school as a whole was recognized by the Governor, the Commissioner of Education and the Department of Education at special ceremonies in May for their efforts in the area of Drug and Alcohol Education. CPS became the first school in Maine to receive Excellence Awards for having both an innovative and comprehensive program for their students.

In addition, Kathy Acker, our Guidance Counselor, was nominated for Counselor of the Year by parents and staff. Dee Rand, our intermediate Resource Room teacher is currently a finalist for Maine's Special Educator of The Year.

In closing, it has been a very busy, very exciting and very rewarding year for the Crescent Park School. There is a strong need for a new facility at this site. One which will allow for our school to continue to meet its true goal of providing quality education to the children of the area.

A Banner Year for Adult Education: The Numbers, the People Behind Them

By CATHY NEWELL

A look at the enrollments in the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program during FY 92 reveals exciting growth and a parallel with national trends indicating a move toward a society of life-long learners.

In the Academic Skills part of the program, the number of students in Adult Basic Education programs receiving 1-to-1 tutoring or small group instruction grew from 10 in FY 91 to 16 by March of 1992. The number of Adult Secondary students which includes those seeking their GED, high school diploma or those with a diploma seeking remediation at a secondary level leapt from 45 last year to 65 by March of 1992. Report of the Andover Principal

By WENDY FORD

Swan. In addition she oversees the student helper program.

During the present school year 1991-92, the Andover school has served 87 children in Grades Kindergarten through Six. Their day begins when they board the buses with Mr. Art Whitten or Mrs. Sharon Hutchins. These two people set the tone for students with cheerful "good mornings" and always have time to watch for the fox with her kits, or discover six deer in one morning.

Mrs. Barbara Sabin has provided program for the 13 Kindergarten children in a half-day program. In addition, Mrs. Sabin serves as the Resource Room teacher each afternoon. Mrs. Adrienne Gallant has led the 11 first-graders into the exciting world of reading and beginning math skills. Mrs. Vickie Meissner has had several children move into her classroom during the year, and will finish the year with 13 students. Miss Carol Stuart has one of the larger classes this year with 15 third-grade students. Mrs. Kathy Conrad and 15 fourth-grade students have traveled from the Titanic to Outer Space in their room. Mr. Roger Sabin has worked with 10 fifth-grade students on projects (in addition to the regular curriculum) ranging from directing the Annual Fat Toad Contest to tapping trees and making maple syrup. The 10 sixth-grade students have been under the leadership of Mr. John Emery, who provides instruction within the classrooms, and teams with Mrs. Sally Hannon to provide transition activities with Telstar Middle School. Mrs. Grace Simmons serves as classroom aide each morning.

The school curriculum is rounded out with instruction in Physical Education with Miss Barbara Dunham; Music with Mrs. Linda Stowell; and Art with Mr. Ed Stevens. In addition children receive Chapter I support from Mrs. Mary Richardson; Speech and Language with Mrs. Crystal Pinneau and Health from Mrs. Chris Cole. I have served as the Guidance Counselor, meeting with each grade during the year, as well as with small groups and individual children. Topics have included friends and friendships, getting along, building self-esteem, coping with stress, appreciating differences, understanding ourselves and others, the CAP program and Personal Safety.

The hot lunch program is supervised in the building by Mrs. Bev Cole. I have served as the Guidance Counselor, meeting with each grade during the year, as well as with small groups and individual children. Topics have included friends and friendships, getting along, building self-esteem, coping with stress, appreciating differences, understanding ourselves and others, the CAP program and Personal Safety.

Before long the next eager Kindergarteners will come to register for the 1992-93 school year. Step Up Day will provide an opportunity for the sixth-graders to spend the day at Telstar Middle School, and teachers will begin planning for the next year's programs and projects. I have enjoyed my year as the Principal at Andover School, and look forward to a continued association with the staff and community.

Woodstock Year in Review

By FRANK BOYNTON

Open House was held early in the month. Garden Day II was held to beautify the grounds around the school. Students and parents took great pride in this event. Grandparents Day was held, with over 100 grandparents in attendance from as far north as Bangor and as far south as New Jersey. Everyone enjoyed this GRAND Day. The month ended with the annual Halloween Party attended by over 150 children.

September saw the beginning of another successful soccer season. The children demonstrated exemplary sportsmanship throughout the season. School photos were taken early in the month and the children from Andover came to Woodstock to share a performance of a Vaudeville Show. the Resource Room students enjoyed a field trip to Kettle Cove.

A Walk-A-Thon raised $2,600 by the first of October to support the many events at Woodstock. Grades 3 through 5 shared a dramatist performance at Gould, while grades 1 and 2 saw an art show in Rumford, the month of November, which saw the beginning of basketball season. A presentation about the Flag by the American Legion took place. The C.A.P. program began under the direction of Miss Morin and Mr. Stevens. The program would serve many students through the month of March. The month ended with a Thanksgiving Feast attended by the Kindergarten students from Andover, Crescent Park, and our own Woodstock Kindergarteners. Mrs. Smith did a wonderful job preparing the event for the children.

December saw the Holiday Season arrive. Grandparents and Foster Grandparents from Ledgeview visited for a special meal. The first annual Green and Red Day and the third School Social was held during the month. Christmas parties finished the activities for 1992.

The Reading Blizzard, kicked off by a Reading is Fundamental Book Distribution highlighted the month of January. The reading efforts of all of the children adorned the Woodstock halls. The Ski program began a Mt. Abram Kindergarten through Grade 3 attended a Mahoosuc Arts performance at Gould. Many basketball games were held. The month ended with the Maine Assessment Testing.

The activities for February included the 100th Day activities. The children really enjoyed this day of 100's as this is a landmark event for the "Math Their Way" program. Special guest Rick Charette visited for a day, courtesy of Mahoosuc Arts. Another social was held before the vacation. The month ended with SAD #44 Board meeting at the Woodstock School, and the beginning of the YMCA Gymnastics Saturday Program.

March roared in with the basketball play-offs, and the third Reading is Fundamental Book Distribution. Several more distributions are planned for the remainder of the year. The Resource Room Adopted Grandparents visited for lunch on Green and White Day. The teachers attended a great Audubon Workshop and the "Spring Fling" social took place. Telstar High students Kem Kessler and Stacey House visited the Woodstock School for Career Education Week. The Woodstock Town Meeting at the school gym ended the month.

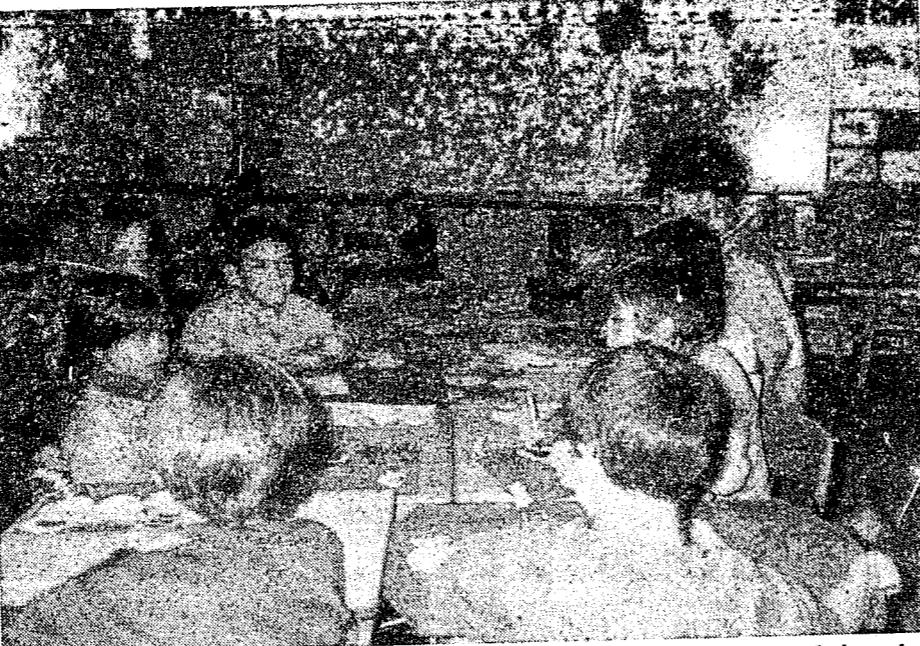

April has seen the third quarter rank cards and the beginning of softball and baseball seasons. The SAD #44 Board meeting was held at Woodstock on the last Monday of the month. Much planning has taken place during the month for the end of the year activities. Coming events include the Music Concert, the Grade 5 trip to Boston, the Kindergarten trip to Portland, softball season games, the sports banquet, field day, the Woodstock School Carnival, and the close of school. I suspect this will be an exciting finish to an exciting year.

March, the number of actual GED's awarded has passed the total for all of FY 91. Eight active Literacy Volunteer tutors are a vital part of our program; they are Lucia Schwarz, Kathy Hooke, Nina Mollicone, Heather Vail, Nina Avgur-Reich, Pat Carter, Joan Hall and Shirley Hodsdon.

The addition of the Adult Learning Center at Ethel Bisbee has proved to be a resounding success as adult learners have a setting appropriate to adult learning open four mornings and one afternoon each week. Instructor Nancy Merrow has a rotating population of 30 students attending one or more sessions per week. In addition to 1-to-1 instruction in a variety of areas relating to academic skills, there are scheduled mini-classes in English and Algebra. The Learning Center has computer-based instruction and has been adding to a growing list of student-sponsored activities and guest visits, including a recent poetry reading by Frances Gunther. There are also Learning Center classes held at Telstar in the evening, instructed by Merrow and Steve Bies.

The use of Adult Guidance Services has also grown with 53 participants in CareerSearch, a program of career exploration, up from 46 last year. In addition to the CareerSearch program, Merrill Bittner schedules appointments for advice regarding job search, educational programs, and such skills as resume-preparation.

The University of Maine Interactive Television courses at the Telstar ITV site have continued to attract increasing numbers of students, hitting a new high of 59 enrollments in Spring '92, up from a previous high of 39 in the fall. These students were enrolled in 26 different courses, up from 19 in the fall. In May, the Telstar site expects to celebrate its first graduate since the inauguration of ITV in 1989.

Lest one think that all the increases were in the academic area, rest assured that Alzena Sargent and Lin Chapman were kept busy in the adult education office taking more than 2,000 registrations in all program areas, (2,014 to be exact up from 1,650 in FY 91). They also kept track of more than 160 different courses and programs.

Director Cathy Newell has been actively involved in Project Rural Workplace, a federally-funded project which has helped to start on-site programs at several local businesses. From the first discussions with management, to the walk through the mill talking with workers, to the very first math class, Bethel Furniture Stock has been the "guinea pig". The personal commitment of Leon Favreau, Tim McIntyre and Lois Ruff did a lot to insure the success of their site, as did the willingness of their workers to take a chance and prove they were learners. This success led to more recent projects at Gilbert Manufacturing and Andover Wood Products with NOVA's Barbara Radmore leading the way, with Sunday River Ski Resort set to come on line once the season is over. Other new activities with businesses this year included the Customer Relations series co-sponsored with Bethel Savings Bank and Sunday River which impacted over 200 employees and a Sexual Harassment Workshop co-sponsored with NOVA.

Adult Education 2000 is the Advisory Committee for the adult education program. This group has met nearly monthly and is currently working on a program needs assessment. They are also working on the specifics for improving the Adult Learning Center using anticipated funding from The Betterment Fund. Members are Dick Crandall, Lois Ruff, John Foster, Jeff Kelcourse, Karen Paul, Beverly Cassara, and Marie Bartlett.

Information about adult education programs is available by calling 824-2780.

Annual Report of the Chapter I, ESEA Program in SAD #44, FY92

By NATALIE TIMBERLAKE
COORDINATOR

Chapter 1 is a Federally funded program. Factors in the size of the grant each year include the number of students in the free hot lunch program and the previous census data on economically disadvantaged population. At the same time, it is important to understand that once a school is approved as an "eligible" school, the Chapter 1 instructional program is available to any student who meets the educational need standards developed in the project.

We have had added "concentration" funds in the past few years as the figures from the 1980 census were followed. It is anticipated that the 1990 census data will be reflected in the FY 94 allotment, and that this may make a difference in the recent trend of increased funds.

However, the Hawkins-Stafford Elementary and Secondary Educational Improvement Amendments of 1988 will soon be placed in the legislative cycle for a "five year" review. Since the 1988 amendments there has been a sincere effort to improve the end results of Chapter 1. That is, that students will receive quality and intensity of instruction which will make a lasting difference in their ability to succeed in school. If those results are found, the prospects of renewal are likely.

The Bethel Co-op Project has focused on that same objective: to bring quality and intensity to this period of "supplemental" instruction to students. To this goal, the local staff which presently includes three certified teachers, four educational technicians, one hourly tutor, and the coordinator, has worked seriously on program development as well as the related "compliance" issues.

We started in 1989 to investigate how to develop a program which would assist students to move toward a firmer place in their classes rather than needing to go for outside instruction over a long period of years. One theme became clear, that we might make a real difference if we moved emphasis to the Primary grade classes.

At the close of '88-'89, we discontinued programs in the Middle School. With the beginning of FY 91 we had acquired enough background information, and confidence to start implementation of the present Partnership program. This is a reading program which requires "partnership" of the teacher to teach, of the student to work, of the classroom teacher to promote, and of the parent to follow-through at home. The aim is to enable the student to return to his class place as a capable learner as quickly as possible.

At the same time we launched the effort to establish Reading Recovery (tm) a well-researched and successful early intervention for at-risk first-graders. It depends on highly skilled, specially trained teachers.

Report of the Telstar Regional Middle School Principal

By BRUCE BELL

During the 1991-92 school year, the Middle School staff has continued to grow professionally. Most of our staff have completed the "Mainstream" course offered by Ann Holt, Sue Howe, and Ted Davis. As a result of these efforts our goal to implement a "least restrictive" educational program for all students has been completed. The Special Education staff along with Mr. Bell and Mrs. Hannon, presented our Special Education Program at the International Symposium on Exceptional Children and Youth which was held in Bangor, Maine in October. We received many positive comments from those who attended our session. This experience helped to reinforce our belief that all children can learn and make progress in school, if they are offered appropriate programs.

The highlight of the past year was the visitation from the State Department of Educational and Cultural Services. Telstar was chosen as a possible school of national excellence. Even though we did not receive the national recognition that we had hoped for, we were one of only four schools chosen for a visitation. The feedback which we received from the experience was positive and helpful as we continue to strive for educational excellence.

The Blue Ribbon Panel cited many areas of excellence which proved that our school is moving in a positive direction. Of particular importance were the following: "A principal pal with a clear vision for the school...A teaching environment of strong collegiality and a clear commitment to teaching...School goals which enhance student self-esteem...A strong Student Council and a variety of extracurricular activities...An effective substance abuse program with parent and community support through the use of volunteers in the DARE program, Odyssey of the Mind, and the STRETCH program...Indicators of success, objective measurement of outcomes, substantiate this picture of accomplishment...Teacher attendance and the number of students involved in serious disciplinary incidents compares favorably with those of similar schools...Telstar Middle School emerged from SAD #44's ability to recognize the changing needs of students, to understand the challenge presented, and to move toward a new middle school. No doubt this experience in change and the success it has brought will stand you well as you grapple with the question of how best to prepare students for life in the 21st century."

Mrs. Hannon has written a grant for middle level girls which was accepted. The funds received from this grant have allowed her to develop programs, activities, field trips, and self groups which will emphasize the power of making positive life choices. It is hoped that these experiences will improve self-esteem for all involved. The long term results are yet unknown, but she hopes that

The FY 92 school year is proving to be a very busy and challenging one for both Mr. Higgins and myself. I feel fortunate that we are able to meet these challenges with the cooperation and help of a very dedicated staff.

The curriculum at Telstar has been designed to meet the needs of the students with experiential education as a major factor in each students' program of studies. Thus insuring that each student will obtain the best possible preparation for college,

During our present school year, one of our teachers, Mrs. Melanie Ellsworth, has been attending the Ohio State University to prepare as a Teacher Leader, or trainer of Reading Recovery (tm) teachers.

She returns to develop a training class of certified teachers from SAD #44 and other regional districts beginning in August. A combination of Chapter 1 and Grade 1 teachers will be trained locally.

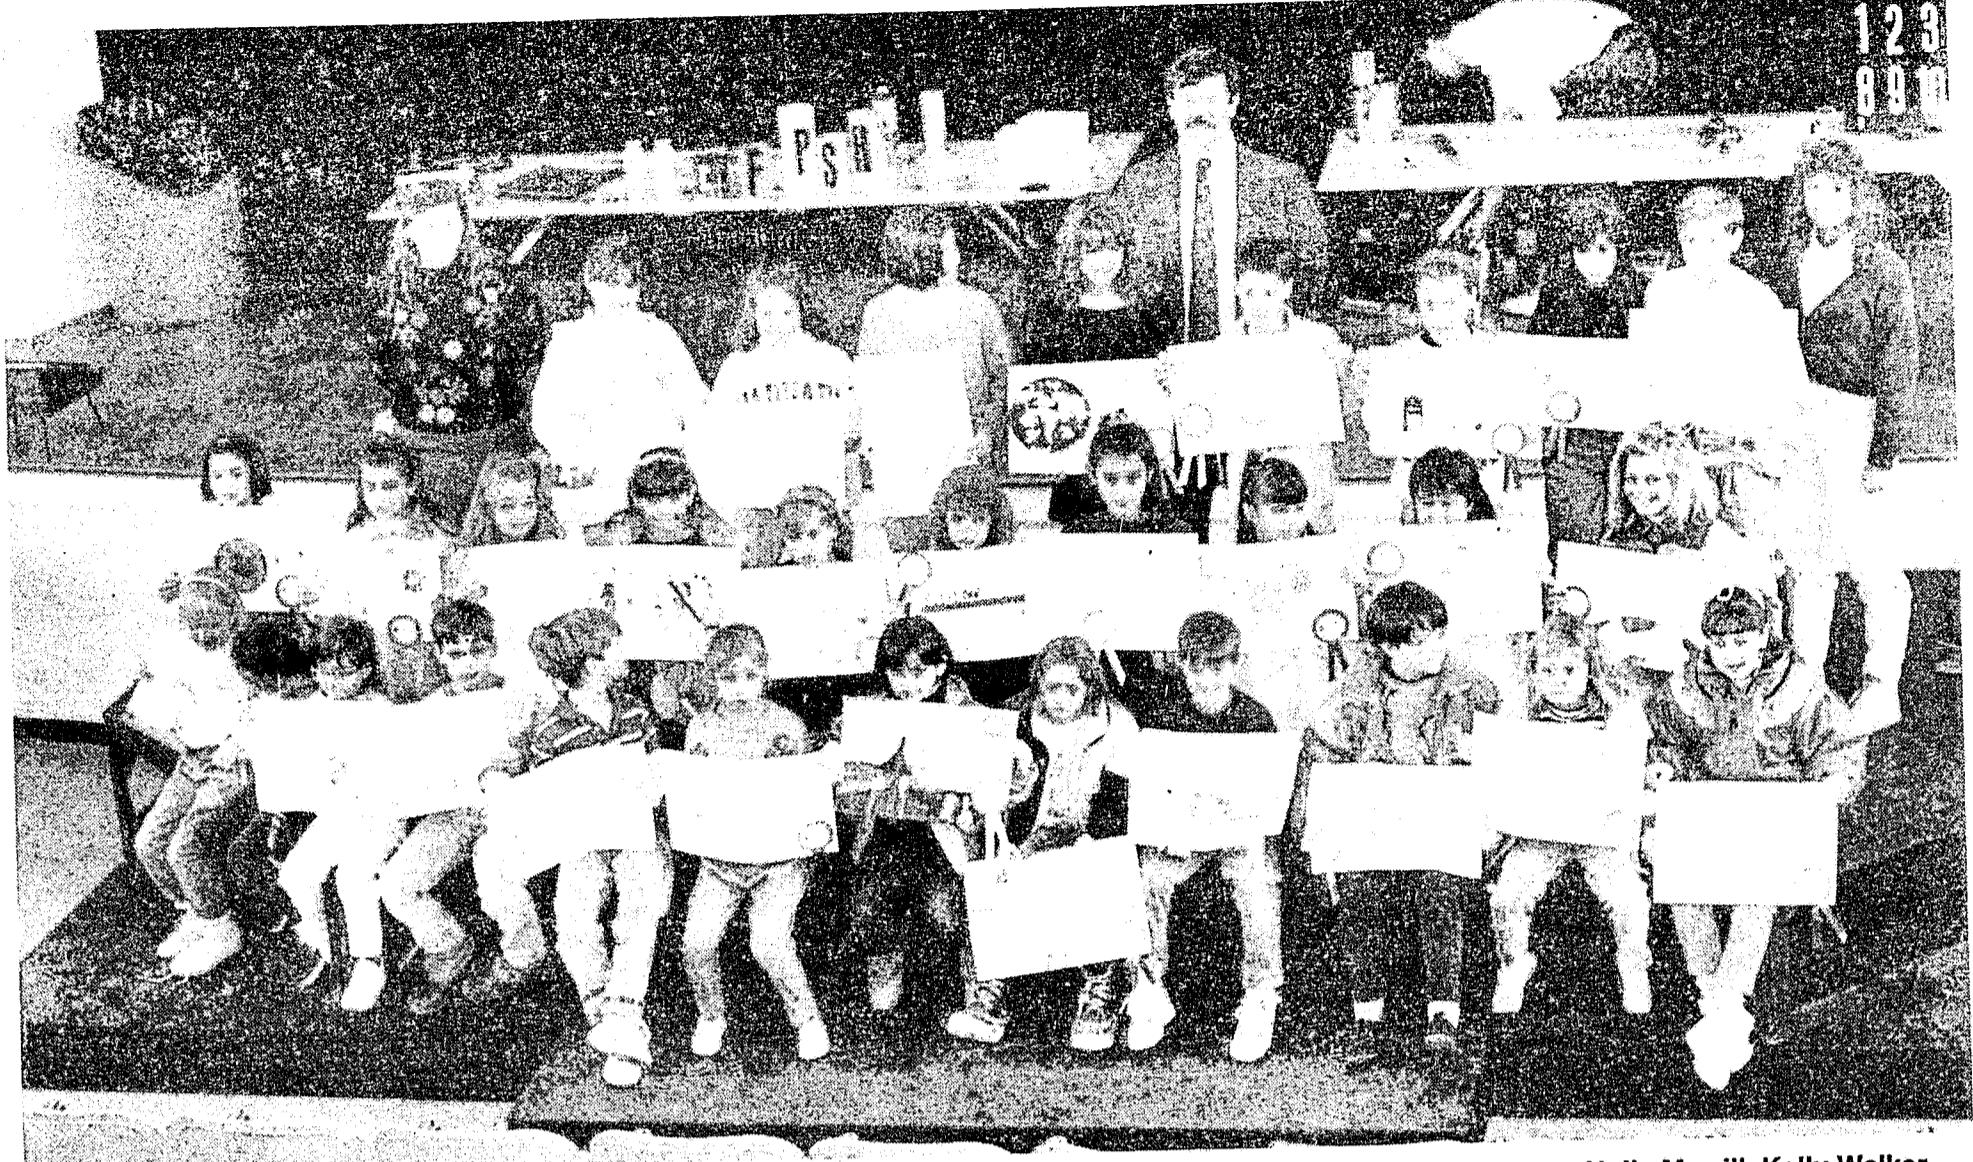

Meanwhile, the Chapter 1 staff has worked with 105 students on a daily basis and monitored over 20 others. During this year they also worked on other upgrading. They have designed the Chapter 1 instruction (curriculum) for Grades 2, 3, and 4 to be in coordination with the district's Language Arts curriculum; developed a student selection policy; and implemented a systematic procedure for monitoring discontinued Chapter 1 students.

They have also maintained records to document the percentage of actual time students are in their Chapter 1 classes to compare with the progress each makes. All of these will be reviewed and revised, in the coming weeks.

They have cooperated to produce a school-wide family Math Night for each school in the district under the leadership of Jean McGuire and Mary Richardson, and as a total team presented the Annual Family Festival night for all Chapter 1 families.

While instruction has focused on the younger students, behind the scenes the needs of older students are still being considered. The progress of former Chapter 1 students--in Math as well as Reading--had been watched in the annual district-wide testing. In the next few months a more comprehensive Grades K-12 Needs Assessment will be requested in both Math and Reading.

are: Debra Germain who is on a continuing leave of absence for health reasons; Kathleen McCluskey and Sherry Sharron who have split the year to substitute for her; Melanie Ellsworth, Jean McGuire, Eva Bowers, Phyllis Buchanan, Mary Richardson, Joanne Riley, and Rhonda Bunker.

A Parent Advisory Committee has had two meetings scheduled this year, with interest in attracting more who are able to come out to keep posted on what is going on in Chapter 1, and to take part in those happenings. At Family Night, they organized a Face Painting table as part of the festivities.

Parents were also prominent in making last summer's program successful, with several volunteering to chaperone our overnight Field Trip to Casco Bay. This summer as we delve into Oxford County's Mineral Treasures, they will be essential to its success.

technical, or job entry training upon graduation.

At the freshman level, the students started their high school careers with a two-day workshop in late September on how to have a positive experience in high school, and a follow-up in early February with a half day workshop to review and extend the material that was covered in September. In March they also spent part of a week exploring career choices through their STRETCH groups and the area guidance counselors' association.

The sophomore class this year spent four days in March on a winter modified Outward Bound experience. The goals of this experience for these students are as follows:

*Developing communication skills associated with how to listen, how to give and receive feed back, and problem solving;

*Understanding group dynamics, decision making, conflict resolution, and leadership;

*Understanding how health relates to a productive life style, the negative effects of poor fitness, alcohol and substance abuse and poor nutrition;

*Acquiring skills and concepts experientially, ie., team building, improved self-confidence and self-esteem which will transfer to the student's junior year at Telstar and on to college life. The juniors and seniors also spent four days in March pursuing choices where they experienced on-the-job training.

New staff members this year include Lillian Conant and Anne Burg. Mrs. Conant teaches Home Economics and Mrs. Burg teaches French and Spanish.

Student discipline continues to improve and to be consistent with the policies that have been approved by the SAD #44 Board of Directors.

The Guidance program at Telstar, under the direction of Mr. Hart and with Mrs. LaVallee as a second counselor, continues to grow and expand its services to our student body.

Mr. Higgins and I wish to thank the staff for their cooperation and we look forward to working closely with them for another year.

this program will encourage these girls to stay in school, select challenging high school courses, and develop long term goals.

Arla Patch was unable to offer her Focus Art program to our students due to recent budget cuts. In spite of this reality, she did not forget her commitment to her "kids." Arla went out and raised funds privately and offered scholarships to her own art program which she calls Explorations. Many thanks to those who contributed so that she could keep her dream alive.

The sixth-grade team has continued to work with Brian Stowell to promote the aims of the DARE program. Student and parent response to the new program has been positive. The major focus of the DARE program is to help students become more knowledgeable about the dangers of drugs while at the same time helping those same students to develop strategies for resisting negative peer pressure to experiment with drugs.

It should be noted that the number of students referred for drugs offenses has been reduced as a result of a variety of programs at the Middle School. Along with the DARE program is the CAP program offered by Sue Howe, the new health course offered by Steven Keane and Lillian Conant, the QUEST program offered by Mrs. Hannon, and the overall structural support offered by Rodney Abbott and Chris Cole, the Telstar Health Nurse.

Suzanne Taylor has added an accelerated math program to her language arts course. The Focus program as it was originally conceived, has been replaced by middle level honors courses. Within this framework, students have written and staged their own plays, published their own magazines, while developing advanced reading and research skills.

Middle School science teachers have completed a curriculum review of the 1991-92 school year. Under the direction of Thomas Riley, the new curriculum has been successfully implemented. The new curriculum emphasizes problem solving, "hands on" instruction, and the reinforcement of the scientific method.

Mr. Lunney has had another successful year with the Middle School Student Council. This year's group raised funds to help replace the curtains in the auditorium. The winter carnival activities were excellent. During Winter Carnival Week the Student Council sponsored daily school spirit contests. They also put on a school-wide talent show. The faculty supported a middle level indoor olympics. The Winter Carnival dance was the concluding activity for the week.

Middle School math teachers have worked hard to increase our students competitive position in mathematics knowledge. Specifically, Linda Davis and John Woodbury have organized a Middle School Math Team. They have developed local competitions, competed in FAX meets and taken students to regional math meets. Mr. Remington and Suzanne Taylor have also contributed to the overall strength of our math program by offering additional math courses to meet the developmental need of our present student population. The Middle School Math Team under the supervision of Mrs. Davis and Mr. Woodbury, placed first in the 11-school Sandy Andy Math Meet held at Dirigo Middle School.

The Middle School Odyssey of the Mind Teams both placed first at the Western Maine Regional Meet held at Telstar in March. The Alice in Omerland Team and the Omument Team competed in the state meet at Bangor. Many thanks to their coaches, Nancy Grover, Dan Grover, Jean Bass and Donna Richard.

The Middle School language arts teachers have continued to work closely with other subject areas to increase the amount and quality of writing across the curriculum. A great deal of time has been spent on developing research skills at all grade levels. Reading programs have been enhanced as social studies and language arts teachers continue to integrate a variety of content related reading experiences into their subject areas.

The Middle School staff is presently developing a site-based staff development program based on the results of the recently completed middle school evaluation. The information gained from this process will enable us to stretch limited resources to improve instruction in all areas.

In conclusion, I would like to thank the entire staff for their willingness to support professional growth. Their continued effort is the foundation of our mutual success.

tributed in each class. Emily Gilbert, Annie Kennett, and Justin Hautaniemi represent third grade. Anna Sysko, Lydia Mills, and Heather Roderick represent grade 4, while Ramsey Harrington and Jenny Mae Wheeler are the fifth-grade representatives.

The council's regularly scheduled meetings are the second and fourth Fridays of each month during lunch recess. The council often meets on other days when planning for special events.

The Student Council was in charge of decorating the school tree this year. On the Friday prior to the Christmas break, they organized a Holiday sing-a-long during the morning recess periods. SAD #44 elementary music teacher Linda Stowell accompanied the singers on her keyboard. More than 200 students participated in the activity.

Twin's day resulted in more than 80 sets of "twins". The building was a blaze of color on Red and White Day on February 14. The "Wearin' of the Green" on St. Patrick's Day encouraged everyone to be Irish for a day.

The council has also operated a very successful school store two days a week. Students have been responsible for choosing the items, setting up the store, and being responsible for the bookkeeping.

In addition to activities in the school, council members have sold hot dogs and refreshments at both the CPS Craft Fair and one of the PTA sponsored movies. The students also helped sell raffle tickets to benefit the Oxford Hills YMCA as their volunteer work spreads out into the community.

The Crescent Park School Student Council has provided an additional dimension to our school. It is our hope that it will continue to grow and thrive over the coming year.

people in Maine. They bring to the local community the hope that the future can be safer and healthier than in the past.

CPS was recognized in this area for its efforts in piloting, implementing and developing the Children Are People (CAP) program.

All children at Crescent Park receive CAP education in their classrooms. Nearly 100 percent of the teachers have participated in the training. Perhaps of greater importance is the fact that the staff provides staff training, making it possible to sustain the program with enthusiasm and commitment. The school's team meets regularly and continually updates and expands the program. Extensive materials have been obtained through a variety of sources including grants from organizations such as the Masonic Lodge, the Rotary Club, and the American Legion. The other school in the state recognized for an excellence award in this area was the BRIDGE Program in Rockland, which provides for a K-12 summer program of preventive services for K-12 students.

The comprehensive program award includes much more detailed review of the entire alcohol and drug abuse prevention and education program in a school. In developing a comprehensive program, schools must make decision about the strategies they will use, being careful to distinguish between productive and counter-productive approaches. These awards were based on education and awareness program, policies, procedures, a positive school and community climate, the implementation of support groups, and student awareness programs on the effects of alcohol and drugs. In addition, schools selected for this honor needed to provide ongoing staff development and promote modeling and attitudes that encourage a healthy lifestyle and demonstrate a willingness to deal with alcohol and other drug dependency as a disease. Once again, the Crescent Park School was awarded one of the two excellence awards in this category for its efforts in promoting the goals of the CAP program and the personal safety curriculum. It is Crescent Park's belief that an effective program must start early, be preventive in nature, and be taught to all students. In addition, it must address the needs of students affected by chemical abuse in the family and students who may have experimented with chemicals themselves. A noted area of particular strength was the parental and community involvement efforts which are so obvious at Crescent Park. A wide range of co-curricular programs, run primarily by school and community volunteers, provide the students with healthy alternatives to drug use. The other school recognized was Madawaska for the "Totally Linked Community Team."

Crescent Park students, resplendent in their beautiful new four color tee-shirts were the highlight of the program, drawing many positive comments from the Commissioner of Education, Eve Bither and the Master of Ceremonies Kim Block, News Anchor of WGME-TV.

In his closing comments, Governor John McKernan Jr. cited the Crescent Park School as an exemplary example of a Maine public school devoted to the total well being of its students and urged other schools and districts to follow Crescent Parks' level of commitment in making Maine Drug Free.

In addition to the two awards of excellence, Crescent Park also receive a special proclamation presented by State Representative Al Barth and co-sponsored by Senator Jeff Mills. Accepting the awards for Crescent Park School were Kathy Acker, Heidi Steele, Brenda Wight and David Murphy. A tired, but enthusiastic, group of CPS students arrived back at CPS that evening with a day's worth of memories designed to remind them of the importance of living a drug-free life.

Adult Ed

critical issues of literacy and adult training and re-training for the high tech workplace have brought adult education into the forefront. Locally, we are seeing a boom in enrollments for basic skills and remedial work resulting from the change in jobs and the high level of unemployment. Our enrollments in basic skills, literacy and high school completion are at all time highs as is the interest in vocational and educational guidance.

The federal Family Support Act, which went into effect in October 1990, mandates participation in educational and vocational programs for welfare recipients and has had a major impact on local adult education programs in Maine. Local education programs are the only option for rural welfare recipients who are in need of educational remediation.

Who benefits from Adult Education programs?

Adult Education programs in SAD #44 enrolled over 2,000 people this year; many of these people do not have children in the K through 12 program and through their participation in adult education, are able to experience a personal return on their tax dollars spent to support education. Those who do have children in school benefit as well. Their participation in adult education emphasizes for their families the importance of life-long learning. The total number of individuals in our student data base is more than 4,500—SAD #44 is indeed a Community of Learners.

Why is public school-based adult education the model of choice for rural areas?

In rural areas, the school has traditionally been a center of community life. The investment in facilities provides a setting for learning which is practical to use in multiple ways. In other communities, agencies such as hospitals, community centers and colleges provide enrichment opportunities which fall to adult education in rural areas.

The use of Telstar High School after 2:30 p.m. does not increase fuel consumption as buildings are on night control after 2:30. Conditions are far from ideal for adult education staff and students during the winter, but obviously we make do.

How is Adult Education funded in SAD #44?

The Adult and Community Education is funded as a program separate from the General Fund. Local support is raised in a separate warrant article, and all state subsidies range from 15 percent for literacy, high school completion, and vocational instruction, to 70 percent for administrative salaries, to 50 percent for general enrichment instruction and some supply accounts. Subsidies are paid two years late. Additional funds for the adult and community education program come from student fees, tuition reimbursements for students between 16 and 20 years of age, and special grants.

What is the local impact this year?

The adult education budget request for FY 93 has been kept at a 0 percent increase for local assessment; the requested amount is $50,253 the same as for FY 92. Our state subsidy for FY 93 will increase over FY 92 despite a 26 percent cut in what we should have received. Any budget increases proposed for FY 93 will be met from state, federal and other sources such as the University of Maine and private foundations.

Why should tax dollars subsidize enrichment courses?

The fact is that tax dollars do NOT subsidize enrichment courses. Our general enrichment courses are self-supporting, given the fact that we take in approximately the same amount in fees annually that we spend for general enrichment courses. Our registration fees are kept as low as possible to allow us to meet our goal of wide-spread community participation by people of all income-levels. Many general enrichment classes are in subjects such as CPR and computer literacy. Craft and hobby courses usually account for less than 10 percent of course offerings. Many of those courses serve as "hidden economic development" tools, given the many cases of successful small businesses who credit their start to adult education enrichment classes.

How do expenditures for adult education compare to expenditures for the K through 12 system, and what benefits does adult education bring to the District?

The local assessment for adult education represents approximately $10 per household. The return on that investment provides access to a comprehensive program, seen as a model state-wide, and well-regarded locally with a 16 year history of strong support for growth. The local budget for adult education is less than 2 percent of the amount appropriated locally for the K through 12 budget. Despite a modest level of funding, the adult education program has earned excellent reviews from the state and local citizen surveys.

The adult education program is the only alternative education program for high school drop-outs. Other benefits for the day program from adult education include purchases of equipment and in-kind services provided by adult education instructors. The University of Maine Extended Site and its electronic media resources were brought to the District by adult education.

What new developments are foreseen for adult education in FY 93?

The Betterment Fund, a foundation long associated with philanthropies in the Bethel area, has given initial approval to a grant of $15,000 for improvements at the Adult Learning Center at Ethel Bisbee. This will allow for a computer lab, modifications for handicapped access, and some additional teaching hours. This grant is conditional on receipt of local funding, and afford the program an exciting opportunity to focus on basic skills instruction, and computer literacy for adults.

The University of Maine will add a third channel to the ITV system on June 1. This will increase the number of courses offered at the Telstar site.

Project Rural Workplace, our federal grant, will continue through December. This has allowed courses to be started at Bethel Furniture Stock, Gilbert Manufacturing, Andover Wood Products and Sunday River Ski Resort. Our challenge will be to develop a way of continuing the excitement of learning in the workplace once the pilot project has ended.

The Adult Education 2000 Advisory Committee is undertaking a needs assessment which will include a survey as part of the Summer Brochure, as well as conversations with employers and individuals. The Committee hopes to gain useful information for future programming and encourages all residents to take the time to return the survey. Suggestions and comments are welcome at any time at the office, 824-2780.

"mother", and "da-da" for "daddy". As parents we do not demand perfection before we acknowledge that the child has spoken words with meanings. We look, too, at the way in which a child acquires physical skills; riding a two-wheeler bicycle, for example. We do not take a pedal from a bike and have the child spend hours practicing with one foot, and then the other before we install the pedal on the bike. Rather the child has the whole bike to practice with, the pedals, the handle bars, the art of steering, of gaining speed, and so on. We all remember those first attempts as children wobbled their way down the sidewalk often collecting skinned knees in the attempt. But how we cheered as they went. We never withheld our admiration for their attempts, and always found something that they were doing well. What we now recognize about their early learning attempts we have translated into classroom practice, and call the philosophy "Whole Language."

four from each class, were inducted into NHS. Our evening ceremony at the Bethel Inn's Gibson Room gave everything a special touch of class.

The "new and improved" NHS wasted no time in getting busy between mid-March and early April. Members volunteered their time to help at the Odyssey of the Mind competition held at Telstar. A few days later, after a lot of planning, everyone made sure our Red Cross Blood Drive in the Helen Berry Auditorium ran smoothly. The Red Cross staff was thankful for the organization and assistance we provided them. Most recently, NHS took part in the Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Oxford County Bowl-A-Thon. As with the Red Cross Blood Drive, we first spent time getting sponsors. We then formed teams, drove to Norway for our assigned weekend time and had a wonderful time bowling. NHS raised approximately $1,200--$400 over our original goal.

Before April break, NHS held an orientation for the new members in the library at Telstar. After eating a lunch of pizza and other yummies, groups performed skits on either scholarship, service, character or leadership. We then individually, discussed our accomplishments this year. It's no wonder we didn't have enough time to finish our meeting, that particular day.

In summation, Telstar NHS is not a typical NHS chapter. Over the years many members and activities have given this chapter a positive, active tradition. The present membership intends to keep the tradition and reputation of the Telstar NHS growing and improving and non-typical.

head, I simply assign another name to those letters that I do know, and keep on reading.

When children are given the same strategies for their reading, suddenly they are freed to love the story. And because reading happens at an individualized pace rather than in a reading group, children no longer fear reading aloud, or making mistakes: there is no one to laugh at an error in pronunciation, or a lost place in a reader. And instead of completing one or two "readers" during the year, the children read literally hundreds of books. Interestingly enough, when reading increases, so does writing; and vice-versa.

I often think of the beginning reading/writing attempts of children as those wobbly first rides on the bicycle. It is important to get the idea down on paper during the "wobbly writing" stage. There is always time to look at grammar, punctuation, syntax, spelling and handwriting. The whole language philosophy has not discarded any of the fine points of writing and reading.
